WE NOMINATE

Howard Wellington Stepp, one of New Jersey's veteran "juvenile judges" and a fixture on the Princeton scene for some 35 years, who in recent weeks — with characteristic forthrightness — has served notice that the Princeton Community is as "aroused and alarmed" by a trend toward juvenile rowdiness and even "viciousness" as it is by the unthinking and destructive "hooliganism" of University students. With often inexplicable incidents, ranging from home-crashings to muggings, continuing to generate attention and dismay, the 59-year old Stepp has gone beyond promising stringent police action in suggesting that "irresponsible acts of adults" may well be major contributory factors.

Since 1947 Juvenile Referee of Princeton Borough and Township, a post which is an adjunct of Mercer County's Court of Juvenile and Domestic Relations, Stepp is given neither to hysteria nor to public scare pronouncements threatening possible juvenile offenders and their families. His quiet insistence over the years in forcing parents to appear before him in answering charges brought against their 'teen-age children gave added emphasis to his recent statement to the press: "Serving alcoholic beverages to minors is iniquitous and dangerous and must be stopped; I have asked the police to investigate future complaints with a view to preferring charges."

The Connecticut-born Stepp, Registrar of Princeton University for 17 years and formerly a Mercer County Assemblyman in the New Jersey Legislature, merits a niche in swimming's "hall of fame." A protege of Yale's incomparable Robert Kiphuth, he was called to Princeton on a "short-term loan basis" late in 1928 to complete a season that had been launched by the late Frank J. Sullivan. He proved so successful in handling a sub-par Princeton squad that he was offered the equivalent of a tenure contract, Yale graciously acceded, overlooking that its Athletic Association had absorbed his full salary during his initial year at Old Nassau.

Upon his retirement from coaching in 1953 in order to concentrate on administrative duties within the University Stepp was the "dean" of all active Princeton varsity coaches and a past recipient of the 25-Year Service Award of the College Swimming Coaches Association. Over the span of a quarter-century Stepp-directed teams had fashioned a near-incredible .711 winning percentage (a figure representing 162 victories in 228 meets). Stepp-produced swimmers had splashed to national and international records, and he had been a member of the U.S. Olympic, Pan-American Games, N.C.A.A. and National A.A.U. Swimming Committees.

Stepp, long identified with both The Hun and Princeton Country Day Schools and in the 1930's adviser to the Polish Government on physical education and recreation, was chairman of the Princeton Development Council that eased the adjustment of World War II veterans to the demands of civilian life. An avid hobbyist, with interests ranging from golf and gardening to American history, Stepp has been the driving-force in the operation and development of Princeton University's Summer Camp, a haven each summer at Blairstown, N. J., for some 375 youngsters from over-congested city areas, including Princeton.

For his understanding of problems all too often overlooked by critics of the oncoming generation; for his abiding faith in young men and women whose aspirations are shrouded in nagging doubts; for expressing the hopes and fears of an increasingly concerned community; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

MAJOR DECISION DUE

In Second Church Voting.
Members of the Second Presbyterian Church will vote Sunday night on three alternatives—two of which will determine the face of the future in Princeton.

By secret ballot, they may approve a plan to repair the present structure on the corner of Nassau and Chambers Streets, thus reaching a decision to retain the present site; or, they may elect to build a new church on the ten-acre site on The Great Road offered them some years ago by Dean Mathey.

There is a third possibility in the form of a more temporary solution. Such strong feelings have been aroused by the twin proposals that members may vote at their 8 p.m. meeting to delay a final decision.
In that event, another ballot will be taken after a study has been made by a group representing all three Presbyterian churches.

In fact, quite a shake-up lies ahead for the 3,839 Presbyterians who attend the three churches clustered in the center of town.

Witherspoon Presbyterian, an integrated church, has taken options on two building lots in outlying areas. The matter of moving is urgent, as enrollment has mushroomed
61 percent since 1948—twice

Historic Meeting. And, on Wednesday of last week, the three churches sent their lay leaders and clergy to parlay together for the first time in their long histories. First Church was founded in 1755.
Second Church in 1847 and Witherspoon dates back about 130 years to the fire which guttered First Church. When the balconies were not repaired, there was no place for the slaves to worship until a benefactor from New York City came to their rescue with funds.

At Wednesday's historic meeting, held at the Peacock Inn, a brainstorming session took place that would have stunned the strongly partisan Presbyterians of a century ago.
The ideas, some of them startling, were touched off by a commentary from a group known as the Princeton Presbyterian Committee, which has been working under wraps since January.

Committee members reporting were Henry S. Broad, William E. Speers, Jr., John R.
Yost, Jr., and the Rev. Dr.
Donald M. Meisel, all of First Church; Mrs. R. V. Cortelyou,
Charles A. Heiberger, Mrs.
Mary A. Riker and the Rev. F.
Hugh Liffiton, Second Church;
John W. Counts, George B.
Field, Leonard F. Newton,
Herbert Williams and the Rev.
Benjamin J. Anderson, Witherspoon Presbyterian.

An incident typifies the Presbyterian isolation the committee seeks to combat: The

PROGRESS REPORT

The current issue of TOWN
TOPICS, running to 56 pages, makes the size of the issues published during the past eight weeks 14% greater than in the corresponding period a year ago.

In expressing its appreciation to the many advertisers who have made this possible, TOWN TOP-ICS regrets that it has been necessary to reject a number of advertisements submitted after space was no longer available.

Rev. Mr. Liffiton of Second Church called on a new family in response to a card left at the church. He found that he was the third Presbyterian minister to call in two days.
The Rev. David McAlpin, associate pastor of Witherspoon and the Rev. Dr. Meisel, pastor of First Church, had been there before him.

"I was almost shocked," the Rev. Mr. Liffiton said later.

"Grow Together!" The committee shook tradition by suggesting that the three sessions (or ruling bodies) hold combined meetings often, that the session committees unravel snags together, that Christian education and leadership be coordinated ("We all use the same Sunday School curriculum," commented John Yost of First Church); that publications be pooled and joint activities be emphasized.

"We suggest," said chairman Leonard F. Newton, a ruling elder at Witherspoon,
"that each session adopt a resolution approving . . . a permanent Princeton Presbyterian Commission" to weigh these matters. The Committee recommended a June 1 deadline for approval and for the selection of four delegates from each church to form the new commission.

"The main thing that came out of this meeting," reports
Dr. Meisel of First Church,

FIRST TO SIGN: Ralph S.
Mason, president of the session of Second Church, which on Tuesday night became the first to endorse a unified "Presbyterian Commission" as a leadership group for the three churches serving Princeton.

"was the keen hope on the part of Second Church that this commission get down to brass tacks and help Second decide about moving. There's also the hope that the other churches would also want to support the decision financially."

The Rev. Mr. Liffiton comments, "The meeting set the stage for a commission which will examine the programs of all three churches and help us work together. We are seeking to make the whole question of what Second Church does a Presbyterian family matter.
Whatever we do, or don't do, will ultimately be decided by the Session of Second Church, but it would be a much happier thing if all Presbyterians were a part of this decision."

The Great Debate, Second Church's decision isn't an easy one. There a tantalizing 10-acre plot on The Great Road, given to it several years ago by Dean Mathey, to be balanced against the formidable repair and modernization program needed by the present church building, a landmark at Nassau and Chambers Streets since 1868.

There's the conflict between the members who want to walk to church, satisfied with center city location, and those who say, as does Kenneth Wight, a member of the Session, "Staying means throwing good money after bad, unless it is for a real advancement of Presbyterianism in Princeton. I feel that we would be stymied to stay where we are."

The Question of Money.
Cost is a tremendous factor. A Princeton realtor who deals in commercial properties estimates the selling price of the present location (100 feet on Nassau, 187 on Chambers) to range between $140,000 and $225,000, basing his thinking on the present values of Nassau Street frontage, $2,000 a front foot. An offer of $150,000 was rejected last May.

The cost of a new sanctuary, Sunday School and Fellowship Hall, plus landscaping, the installation of roads and utilities, and a new organ, would amount to $559,986, including architect's fees. There are qualifying aspects to the figures; the church might have a smaller sanctuary and hold two services on Sundays.

We are in receipt of a letter from an 8-year-old resident of Walnut Lane who asks us to help him solve a problem. It reads:
Dear Sirs:
There is an orange and white cat on our roof every night. We don't own that cat. We wonder who owns it. Please put it in your newspaper.
Sincerely,
DAVIS B. CARVER

Okay, Davis, we hope the cat's owner reads your letter and keeps the beast at home. Also, you get an A in penmanship and spelling from us and an A in initiative (your mother didn't even know you'd written us). And, if the owner doesn't keep that cat off your roof, bring it to us and we'll try to put it in our newspaper as you suggest.

Two telephone booths were clobbered at the Princeton Shopping Center over the weekend by some weirdo who obviously needs a whupping and more. . . . Last Sunday night the Township police grabbed the youngster who broke a patrol car windshield a couple of weeks ago. At a hearing before Juvenile Referee Howard W. Stepp on Friday the 16-year-old kid received his just lumps: ordered to pay $86 damages and got a good and to-the-point chewing-out for his actions.

Echoes of University houseparties: Last Thursday at 6:25 a.m., police on patrol discovered that someone had tried to steal the cannon from in front of the University Cannon Club. Cannon had been knocked off its emplacement. A 30-foot weapons carrier, converted into a vehicle for carrying poles had been backed up to the cannon. Loader had Connecticut license plates. . . . Police as yet unable to locate owner. . . . Meanwhile, loader is relaxing in a local garage. A power hoist and a lot of foot-pounds of energy were needed to replace cannon and zero it in again on hypothetical target, Dial Lodge.

More on houseparties: the mountains of empty cans and bottles for disposal in front of University Place dorms on Monday morning indicate that beer is almost entirely the undergraduate drinking man's philter. . . . Only two reported casualties of the frantic, antic weekend. . . . Sarah Lawrence's Virginia Scheyer twisted her knee, obviously from doing The Twist. Goucherite Terry Rodgers crumpled her ankle doing The Limbo.

An intriguing report on the scuba diving experiences of a Princeton minister (page 24) is among the many stories in this issue, which, incidentally, ranks with the two pre-Christmas numbers as the largest newspaper ever printed in Princeton. . . . the Question of the Week (page 27) records opinion on the recent actions of juveniles in party-crashing and property damage. . . . News of the Theatres (page 5) reports on Lawrenceville School's fabulous new Kirby Arts Center and presents a report on the P. J. & B Players' well-received "Gypsy."

A distinctly unusual form of art is pictured and reviewed on page 22, events that were making news 5, 10 and 15 years ago are recorded on page 23, and the Heptagonal Games in which ten major eastern colleges will compete here Saturday are the subject of the lead story in TOWN TOPICS' six-page sport section beginning on page 32.

placement items needed by the present church total $149,300. An additional $37,000 would be needed to relocate the church entrance and a further $13,000 is needed if the members add to the project the exterior extension tower and removal of ceiling trim. The grand total is $200,000.
The figures were gathered by Lawrence B. Johnston's property committee, composed of Charles Baer, Nicholas Carnevale, George Conover, Mrs. Cortelyou, Charles Hunt, Jr., Clayton Jacobus, Charles Jones, Ralph Mason, Session president; Robert McGilvra, Robert Nelson, Mrs. Raker and John Servis.

Opinion Sharply Divided.
"There has been a serious division of opinion in the past," says the Rev. Mr. Lifflon. The vote last May was 99 in favor of accepting the offer of $150,000 for the present site and 96 against. A two-thirds majority was needed, so the offer went by the boards. The Presbytery of New Brunswick had endorsed the sale.

Second Church has a membership of 707 (plus 194 Sunday Schoolers) and the question is, were must members indifferent, undecided or uninformed?

"This whole thing is difficult for Mr. Lifflon," said one member. "He's new to Second Church, new to Princeton and new to the United States. It's been rough on him."

Mr. Lifflon, a New Zealander, hopes to walk the thin line of neutrality. "I am here to serve people. If I join one side, how can I minister to the other? I feel strongly that we need time to think more about this move." He told his congregation Sunday to keep their objectivity. "It would be odd to have two opposing battle-ships manned by the congregation."

Church Shopping. One of the headaches the proposed commission will find is new Princetonians' habit of church shopping. "Denominations are really going by the board in Princeton," Mr. Lifflon notes. "Newcomers shop them all. They visit the Methodists, the three Presbyterians and dip into Trinity. They leave behind in the churches cards asking the minister to call." And when three Presbyterian ministers call, there's a do."

The National Board of Missions suggests that a congregation of 500 is an approximate cut-off point. Dr. Meisel, whose congregation numbers 1700 (plus 800 in the Church School) feels that a church with two ministers can serve about 1000. At First Church, Dr. J. Christy Wilson assists as minister of visitation.

MORE HEAT THAN LIGHT: Start of last Monday's heedless, deplorable riot by 1000 Princeton University undergraduates was marked by the collection and ignition of this stack of bike racks and benches in the middle of Nassau Street. From this beginning, the mob grew to about 1500, wreaked havoc throughout the town and thoroughly disgraced themselves by their actions. Fourteen students were arrested, 50 are subject to University disciplinary action. Among other riot vandalism: considerable damage at the railroad station, 40 trash fires started, the storming of Miss Fine's School and Westminster Choir College and attempted descent on "Morven," the governor's residence.

TOPICS Of the Town

STUDENTS RUN WILD
In Senseless, Dangerous Riot. While student leaders at the Princeton High School were busy in a commendable effort to put a stop to a series of recent unlawful incidents involving certain of their schoolmates (see story below), about 1,500 of the supposedly more mature undergraduates at the University Monday night staged a pointless and damaging riot. According to the university proctors' office, there were rumors of a riot scheduled for either this Thursday or Friday; but some of the more frenetic and misguided students decided to advance the date.

Despite the valiant efforts of Borough and state police and Princeton firemen, the purposeless, violent disturbance lasted two-and-a-half hours, leaving in its wake thousands of dollars of damage and a firm feeling in the community that, while many Princeton undergraduates may consider themselves the cream of the crop, they can go very sour at a moment's notice.

The riot, which started at about 10:30 p.m. in the court between Henry and 1901 Halls, when a few students cranked a siren, blew a few horns and set off a large number of state-banned fireworks, spread rapidly to Nassau Street. There the mob, by now numbering close to 1000, stopped traffic with a barricade of bike racks, signs and benches.

The barricade was set on fire and a number of metal trash cans were pointlessly hurled into the street. A small car, coming up Palmer Square West, was surrounded by the throng, and about 20 picked it up and moved it onto the sidewalk.

Police Respond Quickly. The arrival of police and proctors resulted in extinguishing the blaze and in bringing the mob fairly well under control at that location. But the vandalism had only begun.

One splinter group from the horde next moved down University Place, upsetting garbage cans and strewing the street with both containers and litter. Arriving at the railroad station, the mob went to work on the P&B. About 15 windows were smashed in the lead car of the shuttle, and another blaze was set on the tracks just ahead of the parked train.

Efforts to rock the train off the tracks were unsuccessful, as was an attempt to move the train on top of the blaze. Princeton Borough Fire Truck

No. 3 was called to the station to extinguish the fire, which severely damaged at least eight of the ties.

By now, part of the swirling yelling mob surrounded President Goheen's home on the campus, tore down about half of the enclosing iron fence and trampled adjoining flower beds. Then, about 1,500 milled back to Nassau Street. As they stormed down the street, blocking traffic and harassing cars, members of the mob were placed under arrest by police or had their identification cards taken by University proctors.

Church itself is an off-shoot of First Presbyterian. Organized by 12 members, it met first in Mercer Hall, then at the corner of Nassau and what is now Tulane Street and later built a $4000 building opposite the present Nassau Street School.

Twice the two churches skittered close to union. Second served the eastern part of town, while First served the western end, but in 1875, First Church members joined

Second in worship services while repairs were made to their own church. In the early 1900's a financial crisis caused members of Second to debate, much of it heated, re-joining First Church. The proposal was rejected.

Looking Beyond. "We have a good deal to build on," said the Committee on Wednesday. "The summer union services, the church school program held in conjunction, the thriving weekday cooperative nursery school. A cooperative daily vacation Bible School will be inaugurated this summer."

Session members have suggested exploring a replacement of the defunct teen canteen and the hiring of a guidance worker. "I think about two-thirds of Princeton's youth is not under any religious instruction," Mr. Lifton says. "Fifty percent of the parents are not church-goers. This is a tremendous challenge."

Other suggestions include a combined Sunday School and joint consideration of financial problems. Howard Waxwood, Jr., of Witherspoon said, "Second Church and Witherspoon both have problems that should be thrashed out together."

The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, pastor of Witherspoon, voiced the new unity felt by the three sessions: "If the Commission is given a mandate to work, it would be a new undertaking. Thus Second would not make plans without regard to Witherspoon's plans and without participation by First Church."

"We are now beginning to look beyond our own problems."

Does May Intend to go?

—HOTTEN KOLD

The snow didn't stick, but it was there (on May 1) for all highly indignant Princetonians to see. But so were the cherry blossoms, and when the thermometer shot upwards to the 80's, they were a lot more at home than the snow.

All that's part of the past, the Man promised. Immediately ahead: seasonably warm through Sunday. Showers a possibility Thursday but no real rain in sight.

then headed for the Westminster Choir College, breaking and bending traffic signs on the way and throwing into the streets all trash and litter placed in front of homes for collection during Clean-Up Week. On the way, the uncontrollable, surging mass of 1,500 also broke a Farr Hardware Store show window, set approximately 40 trash fires, knocked over or uprooted mail collection boxes and took particular delight in throwing all available garbage into the streets.

Reaching the Choir College, the mob charged onto its campus just at the time that some 300 couples were leaving the May Dance there. After shouting insults at the departing couples, the horde invaded the women's dormitories, to the amusement of none of the residents. Several members of the mob were apprehended inside the dormitory by police.

Still unchecked, the crowd moved next to Washington Road, found and wrecked a large trailer-air compressor (before it could be sent careening down the hill towards the lake), did its best to wreck two cars and threw bike racks and benches from in front of Palmer Physical Laboratory into the street.

End of the Trail. Finally, fatigue and perhaps a degree of commonsense took over. After a few more aborted attempts to do further damage, the mob dispersed at about 1 a.m. Only, and not very encouraging, comment from one of the strangely elated throng was: "This should get us more publicity than the Yale-New Haven police snowball fight." Apparently remorseless, the

THE SWEEP OF DRAMA: It's hard to tell which is more dramatic, the theatre itself or what's playing up on stage. This is the auditorium of the new Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. The warm brick and walnut interior harmonizes with an unusual curtain made of rust and brown vertical strips. There is a full-size orchestra pit, so designed that the stage can be extended out over it, if the production is big enough. Technical details about the new theatre in story, this page.

News Of The THEATRES

TO DEDICATE CENTER
At Lawrenceville School. "There isn't a theatre in New York that can beat this one for theatrical equipment. How I'd love to direct a play in a theatre like this!"

The speaker was Josh Logan, the theatre in question, the 900-seat auditorium in the new Allan P. Kirby Arts Center at Lawrenceville School. The Center, already in use for some months, will be formally dedicated Saturday on Lawrenceville's Alumni Day.

Gift of Allan P. Kirby, well-known financier, the Arts Center has, besides the completely equipped theatre, a classroom-studio and exhibition gallery for the art department, individual rooms for student publications, four fully-equipped camera rooms and quarters for the radio club.

The theatre auditorium, whose seating capacity is, to be precise, 890 persons, gives the school for the first time a secular auditorium big enough to hold the entire student body of 635 boys. In the past, the chapel has been the only building big enough for all.

Staged with Care. Designed by Walter F. Thaele of Philadelphia, the theatre has been in the planning stage since 1957, according to Peter Candler, Director of Drama at Lawrenceville. During this period, Mr. Candler worked with theatrical specialists familiar with the problems of professional and school theatres, and as a theatrical technician himself, made many suggestions to the architect.

The new theatre has a proscenium width of 36 feet. The stage is 40 feet deep and could accommodate, should the production so require, five pre-set wagons. The Periwig Drama Club production of "South Pacific," given last weekend, used a series of small wagons — 25 scene changes and eight sets.

A loading area outside is connected to backstage by an overhead door so that it is possible to drive a real jeep right on stage with barely a shift of gears. This was done, in fact, for "South Pacific."

There is a standard fly gallery with 40 battens. Mr. Candler is particularly proud of the light bridge, unusual in any theatre and especially so in a student set-up. The bridge is a movable walk across the top of the stage which adds to the flexibility of the lighting system. Working from the bridge, the lighting crew can manipulate baby spots by hand as a lighting supplement.

Push the Button. A Century electronic switchboard has a pre-set system which can handle the lighting for a maximum of five scenes just by the push of a button.

On the sound side, there is a Norelco sound system, stereophonic and high fidelity, built right into the theatre. Microphones can be plugged into the floor at almost any location in the theatre or on stage, so that participants in conferences and seminars can communicate with each other easily. A Cinemascope screen is also part of the Kirby equipment.

Surrounding and undergirding the theatre and stage is a honeycomb of workrooms: a costume shop and properly shop, a lighting shop and a sound shop, and most complete of all, a scenery shop with enough carpentry equipment, both manual and electric, to keep 150 carpenters busy.

Mr. Candler speaks with special affection of the paint frame. Boys at work in the scenery shop can paint an oak tree and a bunch of cocks and a castle in the distance, and then watch as their completed scene is hauled right up on stage directly from the basement workshop.

Professional Calibre. Dressing rooms with professional mirrors and lighting, a special women's dressing room and shower room for visiting actresses, shower rooms for the men in the cast, an enclosed office for the technical director — these are a few of the additional facilities at the Kirby Center.

"This theatre gives us a great opportunity to pursue the things we'd like to do," commented Mr. Candler. "We plan to use it to enrich the community as well as Lawrenceville School, and we've had gratifying attendance at our productions from the people who live in this area."

Besides "South Pacific," Mr. Candler has staged "Teahouse of the August Moon" in the Kirby Center. The auditorium has been used by two groups of secondary school officials for conferences. Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer addressed the student body in the theatre. The comedienne, Anna Russell, has appeared there. History films have been shown to students as part of the Lawrenceville curriculum.

"We use it around the clock," Mr. Candler said, "and we hope, in the future, to expand in whatever ways we can."

"A REAL GOOD TIME"
P. J. & B. Stages a Hit. There's no telling the talent that lies hidden next door. The P. J. and B. Players' production of "Gypsy" at times had the neighbors electrified.

The strippers' bit to the song, "You Gotta Have a Gimmick," was riotously funny. The neighbors clapped, whistled and stomped. The girls were terrific. Anne Sheldon as Tessie, Joan Lucas as trumpet-playing Mazeppa and Rita Me...

Dowell, the battery-charged Electra. They came as a blast of relief to the McCarter audience after an hour-and-a-half devoted to child actors and good old Momma Joan Lucas, whose background includes four Broadway shows, was a show stopper.

An appreciative member of the audience viewed the bumps and grinds and said, "Man, imagine what the rehearsals must have been!" Another neighbor commented hopefully, "Next year, they're gonna give 'em the Way to the Forum"—and those girls are just practicing."

For some reason, no director, not even Milton Lyon, has had the nerve to cut the long first act at some point where the characters of Momma, Baby Jane and Louise are established. Child actors, no matter how charming—and the P. J. and B's were very attractive—get a little wearing, especially when there are child actors in nearly every home.

Wyn Hinnman gave the character of Momma, the pushy stage mother, an interpretation different from the brassy slant given by Ethel Merman on Broadway, and the frantic clowning of Roz Russell in the film.

Mrs. Hinnman was softer, yet firmer in her determination to reach the Orpheum circuit. Her voice, described by a neighbor as a "whisky contralto" met the challenge of the rather tuneless songs with the aid of plenty of body Eng-

LOVERS' QUARREL: John Lithgow and Margo Tobolsky exchange more than words in the course of a lovers' quarrel scene in the ballet, "Echos of Paris." Mila Gibbons' new ballet, written for her Aparri Dancers, will be given in Murray Theatre on May 18, matinee and evening.

Lithgow's big scene in the last act, "Rose's Turn," in which she imagines herself a star, was well handled.

A steady note of excellence was supplied by Betty Fussell as Louise, later to achieve fame as stripper Gypsy Rose Lee. Her singing ranged from the sweet tones of a birthday girl singing "Little Lamb" to the raucous version of "Let Me Entertain You" as she develops her strip routine. The routine left the neighbors stunned.

The cast of about 60—all ages, all sizes—includes Fred Sheldon, who carried well the milk-toast role of Herbie, Momma's snit-agent; Carol Esley as the pampered June; Larry Moss as the star-struck young dancer, Tulsa; Marion-of-the-Ball Opdycke, who supplied lovely corn as Mrs. Goldstone, and Kenneth Bordner, as the kid show entrepreneur, Uncle Jocko.

The musical was staged with great ingenuity, using the simplest of backgrounds—a giant stairway and an elevated platform. One brief bit, where chugging characters impersonated a train while Momma recruited newsboys, was very cleverly done. Much credit goes to Mr. Lyon for the pace and gaiety of the play.

The audience gave special applause to Will Johnson and Mr. Lyon, the director, whose twin pianos sustained a merry, intricate accompaniment to the songs. They nodded and beamed at each other as they got through the rough places. To quote the song, "They had a real good time."

So did the Players. And so did the audience.

"ECHOES OF PARIS"

By Aparri Dancers. Christine Cope of the Aparri Ballet, Sukey Love, 12-year-old Aparri dancer and Allan McClain, University senior, will play the leading roles of The Girl, The Little Girl and the Wounded French Soldier in the forthcoming "Echos of Paris."

The ballet, composed by Mila Gibbons for her Aparri dancers, will be given in Murray Theatre at 2:30 and 8:30, Saturday, May 18. Tickets are on sale at Male's Bookshop and at the University Store.

Prominent in both Theatre Intime and Triangle Club, Mr. McClain directed last year's "Sign of Jonah" for the Chapel Deacons and this year's "Devil's Disciple" for Theatre Intime.

Other starring roles in "Echos of Paris" will be mimed and danced by John Lithgow and Margo Tobolsky, both of Princeton High School.

IT'S NEW

To Us

SPRING SHOPPING BAG

Wigs, Art, Travel and Chairs. We've made a wide circuit of the shops this week, coming back with a little of everything.

A new art shop opens in Princeton, and invites you to examine a 19th century American primitive... a furniture store in Somerville acquires a dramatic line of rattan summer furniture, some in Danish modern, some in French provincial style... a travel agency offers to launch college students on a shipboard course of study... and an antique shop bows in graciously with a stand to hold your wig.

FRAME THAT DUFF

Kalen's Specialties. Every conceivable service related to pictures and framing... this is the framework for Kalen's Art Shop, newly opened on the corner of Palmer Square West and Hulfish. Kalen's, in business since 1886, makes a specialty of providing the best and most appropriate frame for your picture, but the shop has also moved into other lines related to framing. You will find some unusual and interesting examples of painting from many schools, art objects and accessories for your home, art supplies if you paint, and a tremendous collection of prints.

Among the paintings are rarities like "The Old Hermit," done about 1850 by the Philadelphia artist, J. A. Woodside, who departed from his profession of painting tavern signs long enough to do a little Sunday painting on the side. There's a Sonntag, too, a romantic 19th century landscape complete with waterfall and forested hills.

One of Kalen's specialties is the restoration and repair of old paintings, so these 19th century ones are in fine shape.

On the modern side, there are prints from $1 to $30 or $40, and limited editions up to about $150. Six woodblocks from the studio of L. August, for example, are $25 each, signed and numbered.

Among the frames—and there are hundreds, both in molding and in ready-for-the-picture frames—you will find a charming 18th century gold with a velvet liner, and spandrel frames for early American or traditional pictures.

In the print rack, we found some wonderful old historical prints, like "Perry's Victory On Lake Erie," "Assault On Fort Sanders," "Battle of Bunker Hill" and so on. A splendid present for Father's Day.

To share a wall space with your picture, Kalen suggests perhaps a seance, a made-to-order mirror, or a black wrought iron Spanish wall piece, charming and filigreed, with a deep well for a candle, or plenty of room for a lamp if you decide to electrify. This Spanish seance is about three feet long, but narrow and slim as a Spanish grandee.

Moving from wall to desk or library table, we find pleasing little 9-inch reproductions in verdigris bronze of such old friends as the Venus of Milo, a discus thrower or two, and in natural "stone," a Balinese head.

Artists who do more than just look, will find Rembrandt prints by Talens, Delta brushes, and, always, valuable advice from Mr. Kalen.

RATTAN FOR RESTING

Inside, Or Out. The solid branches of the rattan vine have been formed and molded like wood to produce some of the most unusual sunroom and suntime furniture we've seen in a good while. You'll see it, too, at Regent House, on Main Street in Somerville.

Banish any thought of the old-fashioned rattan chair grandma had on the sunporch. This stuff is styled, and high-styled at that. For example, in one set, the rattan is used to achieve the spare lines of "Copenhagen Contemporary." In another group, the strong, but pliable vine has been subjected to steam and then bent in order to produce the gentle curves of French provincial. It has been styled in the Chinese manner and in the Hawaiian mode, as well.

And color! There are 14 finishes to choose from, including natural, of course, and such decorator colors as lacquer red and pale turquoise. Swatches of fabric spill out in a rainbow of prints from the tropics, woven styles for contemporary tastes, or "supported vinyl."

Play for Sale

Creative Playthings, not exactly what you might call a Discount House, has decided to inaugurate its new warehouse on the Princeton-Hightstown Road with a SALE, of all things.

This sale will offer to the public some pretty exciting merchandise, marked down 14 to 12. You'll be able to pickup prototypes of Creative Playthings toys, design models, one-of-a-kind creations, discontinued lines. A magnificent investment opportunity for a nursery school or a family with lots of creative playmates running around the yard.

The new warehouse is just off the Princeton-Hightstown Road on Edinburg Road, and can be identified, as are the other Creative Playthings buildings, by the light blue water tower. Hours: 10 to 4, this Saturday only.

for patios that catch the rain. There is so much variety in the rattan line at Regent that we can't possibly describe every piece, but maybe we can give you an idea. For one thing, the furniture is light in weight, because that is the nature of rattan, but extremely sturdy in fact and appearance; construction is guaranteed for 10 years. Although it is summer furniture, it can move indoors to recreation room or den as easily as the seasons change.

Consider a six-foot long bar, done in the Chinese manner with dark walnut rattan and white leather, and matching bar stools that are probably sturdier than a lot of all-indoor furniture.

Look at the Lunau Table, 49 inches in diameter, with Micarta top in white, and a base of splendidly glowing Chinese of splendidly glowing Chinese.

YOUR CARPET QUESTIONS

Could you please explain briefly the methods used in cleaning rugs in the home?

A thorough shampooing by a professional cleaner is the only good method to get rugs really clean. Any reliable cleaner uses a good detergent and a circular brush. The suds do the work and the cleaning is thorough. As for the housewife, the only cleaner we recommend she use is a dry powder type. It will do a fair job but not as good as shampooing.

FILM CLASSIC SET

At McCarter. A powerful indictment of war, "Grande Illusion," will be shown at 8 p.m. Tuesday at McCarter Theatre. The film, considered to be Jean Renoir's masterpiece, has been heralded as

"Woolf" Back in June

Edward Albee, who scowled at a Princeton "Response" audience three weeks ago and said "YOU are responsible for the decline of the modern theatre" must find it somewhat embarrassing to contemplate the love affair between Princeton and the Albee play, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

The hit will come to Princeton for its fifth performance on Friday, June 7, at 8 p.m., having played four times to sold-out houses. The theatre, of course, will be McCarter.

In the cast for this fifth appearance will be Elaine Stritch, Shepperd Strudwick, Eileen Fulton and Bill Berger. Ticket reservations may be made by calling McCarter at WA 1-8700.

critics as one of the ten finest of the last 40 years.

"Grande Illusion" (in French with English subtitles), stars Jean Gabin at his greatest and has Eric von Stroheim in the unforgettable role of the polite, proper officer in charge of a German prison camp during the first world war.

Tickets are 50 cents for University-connected families, 75 cents for all others.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

The Ugly American (now playing) is a sharply etched version of the controversial novel, published several years ago, by William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick. It points in Hitler terms to the United States diplomats in southeast Asia.

The key figure is the American ambassador, played by Marlon Brando. He is sent to a mythical, presumably typical, southeast Asian country called Sarkhan, and is greeted on arrival by a demonstration which swiftly turns into an obviously incited riot.

The ambassador seeks out Deang, an old friend who is leader of the Sarkhan revolutionaries, and finds him responsible for the riot. Deang, played by Eiji Okada, shows in a Hitler political tirade that he follows the strict Communist party line without realizing it.

Matters go from bad to worse as the ambassador seeks to steer a middle course, with the Freedom Road as a focal point of trouble. His honest mistakes and his failure to recognize the dangers lead to a smashing climax.

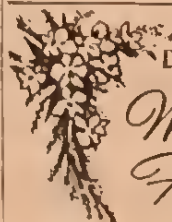

Brando is supported by a fine cast: Sandra Church as the ambassadress; Pat Hingle as the American engineer charged with building the so-called Freedom Road; Arthur Hill as the Embassy's chief under Brando; Jocelyn Brando as Hingle's wife and Kukri Pramoj, as the Sarkhan Prime minister.

The film was shot in Thailand, although a screen foreword carefully explains that Thailand was not the locale of the story. The commentary on today's bitter international scene is handled with insight and conveys an important lesson. Comment: a strong, exciting and often moving film.

mously attached to the child, played by appealing Patricia Gozzi. They both look forward to the Sundays when he may take her from the orphanage. Tragedy strikes as his friends misunderstand the attachment.

night guest with a place to sleep. A standard sofa-bed is also available.

In the French provincial group there are, among other pieces, two one-arm sofas joined by a graceful little curving bench with a curving table behind it. Cane sides and cane table shelves blend with the rattan in this design.

You'll have to watch your guest list with this furniture, because once you invite someone into a rocker-swivel circle chair with deeply tufted plastic cushions on back and seat—you'll never get him out (Unless he heads for that white leather Chinese bar.)

WHERE'S MY WIG?

I'm A Tory. Myself. You think wig stands are a trifle old-fashioned? All right, where are you keeping that wig you bought last month? Maybe on the little mahogany wig stand, brought back from the 18th century by Elmwood Antiques.

It's a little three-legged mahogany table with two four-inch long drawers. (One is for powder, one for pins—what else?) The top is actually a mahogany doughnut about a foot across. Apparently you put a vase or something similar in size, into this doughnut and hang your wig on that. You will probably use it as a plant holder. For maidenhair fern.

Genuine twist lamps, made from 18th century candle-stands, are $195 each, complete with shade and electricity. The twist is a graduated one, thicker at the bottom. A twist candle-stand has a lovely star inlay top, and this will not be converted to electricity.

Perhaps the most striking of all the pieces brought back from England to Elmwood by Mr. and Mrs. Stern, is a pair of old Chinese jars, 10 inches tall, with pillbox covers, both jars a regal and glowing shade of copen blue, with traditional white floral design. They are $165 for the pair.

There must be a lot of English weather wrapped up in the half-dozen or so banyo barometers brought back by the Sterns to Elmwood. All are mahogany, in fine condition, some with inlay, some with various dials to record humidity, the state of English politics and the like.

Speaking of this reminds us of the hunting prints now on Elmwood's walls. You may have these for as little as $12.50 each for a print about 8 by 10 inches, or one of Herring's Fox Hunting Scenes, the one called "Full Cry" for $85.

Lawyers will want one of the Spy prints from Lincoln's Inn.

IF YOU LIKE Town Topics, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

Court, and golfers will choose one of two Elmwood prints, either the big one, "A Grand Match Played On St. Andrew's Links," or an untitled print of two golfers, one with that glowering expression which shows a definite dissatisfaction with his game.

rioters then returned to their dormitories.

All then returned to their dormitories, that is, except for 14 who were arrested and put in the Borough Jail. These were all charged with disorderly conduct and later released on $25 bail each with summons to appear in Borough court on May 20 for a hearing in front of Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. In addition, the proctors will turn over the names of about 50 additional miscreants for University discipline.

Those arrested, Graham Berry '65, Howard Snyder '65, Steve Fishelman '65, Marshall Morgan '63, John Greacen '64, Serre Murphy '65, Garry Taylor '64, Ronald Buras '65, Daniel Per Lee '65, Douglas Walters '66, Fred Long '65, Mike Hediker '63, William Everdell '63 and Kenneth Perko '64.

During the vehement display of unbridled idiosyncrasy, Borough police suffered torn uniforms, cuts and lacerations and stolen hats and equipment. Also, three patrol cars were damaged by the throng.

Statements Issued. Three statements by Borough and University officials, all Princeton graduates, should give riot participants much thought.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson, Class of 1944, said:

"As a resident of Princeton and a graduate of the University, I deplore a riot such as this. These students don't seem to understand that other people have certain rights and that you cannot destroy private property and set fires wantonly and try to assault the police. You just can't pass off this kind of behavior as 'spring fever.'"

Princeton University President Robert F. Goheen, Class of 1940, said:

"As a surrender to raw, mass impulse and an occasion for mob violence, any riot is reprehensible."

"The rioting Princeton students of Monday night lacked even the excuse of a substantive cause. Nor can their conduct be brushed aside by 'spring madness,' 'boys will be boys,' or any such euphemism.

"The disturbances caused off campus, the wanton damage to property both on the campus and in the town and the scuffling with Borough police rancor such evasions. In all of these respects this riot was a shocking display of individual and collective foolishness on the part of young men who have no possible justification for sinking into it."

Bills for Damage Asked. "In cooperation with municipal officials, the University is investigating the origin and course of the riot and the extent of the damage done. Se-

School Expansion Approved

By a 4 to 1 margin, Township voters Tuesday night approved a $512,000 bond issue to permit additions to the Littlebrook and Riverside Schools.

The vote was 333 to 88, about seven percent of the electorate going to the polls.

Disciplinary action is planned for those students who have been, or may yet be, apprehended for their part in the rioting.

"Persons in town who suffered loss or damage to property are asked to submit bills for same to the dean of the students through the Borough administrator. Costs will be assessed against the student body."

At a press conference later in the day on Tuesday, President Goheen added that the riot was "the worst I've seen" and "I feel a profound depression about the situation." In discussing the damage costs further, he added: "It's still to be determined exactly how they will be paid. Obviously those apprehended and known to be directly associated with the riot are going to bear a larger share of the cost."

"We are never concerned with Princeton University's 'public image,'" he said. "The real issue is the surrender of the individual will and judgment; the degradation of individual human beings and any kind of a community like this. This is our concern, not what we look like."

A third statement, by James B. Laughlin, Class of 1952, assistant dean of students, said: "The rioting of Princeton students Monday night is viewed by University authorities as an extremely serious matter. (It is) ... being carefully investigated to determine responsibility and assign penalties."

"The University deeply apologizes to those disturbed by this inexcusable series of incidents. Property losses and damages will be met by those involved in these unthinking actions."

"President Goheen this morning telephoned his apologies to Governor Hughes; to Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., president of Westminster Choir College; and to Messrs. Henry

SELF-POLICING URGED
By PHS Leaders. As a direct result of the recent outbreak of teenage violence, student leaders at the Princeton High School have issued a strong plea for immediate ending of unlawful behavior by certain members of the student body. The forthright plea, in the form of a written statement, was distributed to each student at the opening of school Friday and to seniors and their parents who attended a special meeting on the subject the preceding evening.

Friday's distribution was made by members of the student council and other school leaders. The statement, prepared by one of the group, cited the unlawful occurrences of the past month and recommended to students four methods for putting a stop to any further destructive behavior.

"Who are these small people committing these opprobrious acts? We know them. We attend classes with them. Some of us consider them our friends. Yet we sit on our duffs and allow them to break our property, ruin our parties, degrade outsiders' opinions of our town and insult our police."

Suggested Deterrents. "How can we stop these few inconsiderate, destructive menaces?" "1) Stand up and start using names. Give them to the police. Let's talk and use these names among ourselves, not joke about them. In only one (the Bramwells) case was this done... One boy was fined... One boy was sentenced to Annandale (it's overcrowded so he is on probation again, but next time makes him a three-time loser). Four others received one year's probation."

"2) When party crashers appear, don't tolerate them, but don't engage them either. Call the police... This action now will pay big dividends later."

Hail To You, '42
Members of the class of 1942, Princeton High School, will gather to exclaim "You haven't changed a bit!" at the 21st reunion of the class scheduled for June 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the Princeton Inn.
Checks for $7.50 per person should be mailed to Joyce Stive Warren, 263 Harrison Street. Tickets will also be available at the door.

"(3) Unless you've been specifically asked by the host, don't even go near a party you've heard about. If you pay this courtesy to others, perhaps they'll pay it to you."

"(4) Have The Tower speak out, say something. The Tower is, I thought, the paper of Princeton High students. Yet when a problem of such critical importance as this affects us, this honor-winner (for such good news coverage) shuns its prime responsibility and is silent. Perhaps this question is too hot or controversial for the placid-minded paper. In any case, I say The Tower is sadly shirking its obligation to report the news, especially when the news strikes so close to 'home.'"

Action Called For. "Fellow students, this is no longer a problem we can pass off with a laugh and use as ordinary gossip. It is past this stage—far past it. These things are a threat to every soul in this town. Now we must stop laughing and joking about them. We must think, then act."

Reaction of students to the statement was reported as mixed. Most members of the student body were said to be highly in favor of it. A few, probably the culprits and their associates, were known to be infuriated (and, hopefully, scared). They were reported as trying to determine the name of the writer in order to "get even." If they do, chances are said to be almost nil that they will get away with any reprisal.

LICENSE REVOKED
For Leaving Accident Scene. Christopher R. P. Rodgers, 20 Cherry Valley Road, lost his license in court Monday for leaving the scene of an accident. Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., also fined Mr. Rodgers $30.

Burnes J. Coppage, 23, 42 Mercer Street, was also fined $30 as an unlicensed driver. Bruce S. Goldin, 19, of Flushing, Queens, N. Y., a student at Rider College, paid a $10 fine on a charge of careless driving.

TO ANALYZE BUDGETS
For United Fund. Next Monday, Wednesday and Friday the six budget sub-committees of the Princeton United Fund will sit down with the whole budget committee and outline in detail the recommended 1964 budgets for member agencies of the Fund.

The final review sessions will be held at 8 p.m. at the United Fund headquarters, 4 Green. The public is invited to attend.

The six budget sub-committees, under the general chairmanship of Aubrey C. Huston, have been meeting with member agencies—two or more to each of the six sub-groups—to review agency programs of service and go over their detailed budget requests for 1964.

A careful analysis has been made of each agency audit, each item of income and expense and the total, overall record of service to the community.

THE LONG COUNT
League Plans Population Study. A major study of future population trends in the Borough and its environs will be undertaken by the League of Women Voters. Members of the League will analyze population projections in order to help in planning the future needs of Princeton High School.

New officers elected at the League's annual meeting are Mrs. Thomas Waite, treasurer; Mrs. R. James Fenton, Jr., first vice-president, and Mrs. Richard Bergman, third vice-president.

Members of the new Board of Directors will be Mesdames Stuart Wallace, James Armington, John Westlake, Kenneth Schwartz, Stephen Kidd, all for two years, and Mrs. Harold Sprout and Mrs. George Derby, one year.

Mrs. Robert Danielson was chosen chairman of the nominating committee, to be assisted by Mrs. C. Harry Kahn and Mrs. Ted Pavlovitch.

MAJOR VENTA TO RETIRE

After 20 Years In Air Force. Major Innocenzo M. Venta Jr. of 12 Colonial Avenue, Princeton Junction, will retire in June from the U. S. Air Force after 20 years service. He and his family will be honored at a dinner this Sunday at the Villa Firenze, Somerville.

Major Venta enlisted in 1942 as a private in the infantry, and graduated from bombardier and navigation school as a lieutenant in 1945. His three tours of duty overseas have included 13 months in Greenland, three years in England and four years in Germany.

He participated in the Berlin air lift, and sponsored a clothing drive for German war orphans with Princeton Post 76, American Legion. Major Venta has been a member of Post 76 for 20 years.

He was born and brought up in Princeton, where he attended school. His wife attained the rank of captain during her 12 years in the nurses' corp. Major Venta plans to attend college and enter politics.

His father, Innocenzo M. Venta Sr. of 97 Mountain Avenue, will also retire this June following 45 years of employment at Princeton University. He served with the cavalry in World War I.

HOUSING APPROVED

For Borough Elderly. Housing for the elderly, 30 units on a two-and-one-half acre plot on the west side of North Harrison Street, was approved in principle Tuesday night by the Borough Planning Board.

The vote was six "yes," one "no" and one abstaining. The "nay" vote was cast by Bryan Moore, who declined after the meeting to give a reason for his objection. The abstainer was Alan Carriek, Borough Council member, who said he did not want to prejudice his position when the matter comes before Council some time in the future.

On the plot, which lies between Harrison and the old quarry off Spruce Street, the Housing Authority wants to build "Lloyd Terrace," consisting largely of efficiency, or one-room apartments, with some one-bedroom and a few two-bedroom units.

These apartments would be available only to persons over 62 years of age who have lived in the Borough one year or longer. The rental would be about $30-$50 monthly, said Mrs. Steven Michael, executive director of the Authority.

Deadline July 18. Donald Bryant, counsel for the Authority, in presenting the proposal, said that the federal Public Housing Authority wants a positive answer from the Borough by July 18. Otherwise, Mr. Bryant said, "Lloyd Terrace" will die.

Mrs. Michael said that there are about 1,000 Borough residents on Social Security, and that she could fill 22 of the proposed units now from single persons or couples living in other public housing projects. She said there are 834 persons over 65 living in the Borough now.

loved Mr. Bryant's presentation, Board members expressed concern about density, and it was clear after passage, that the project's open design, and the relatively few units—30—were primary factors in the approval. Dr. Charles R. Erdman said he would not have voted for approval otherwise.

The matter now goes to the Borough Zoning Board for a variance. The area is zoned for double housing and the Authority must obtain a variance in order to construct multiple housing on the plot. If the Zoning Board grants a variance, Council will then act. Federal authorities have already given their approval, contingent on Planning Board consent.

The Authority's previous hopes for a project across Harrison Street north of the firehouse dissolved when federal officials refused to approve the site because of its high cost, Mrs. Michael said. Cost of the present parcel, owned by Charles La Placa, was not divulged, but the Housing Authority said it knows about what the cost will be, and feels confident it can meet the price. "There has been enough procrastination," said Martin Beck, in making the motion to approve. "We must approve this proposal."

The Board also approved the University's plans for a new geology wing on Guyot Hall and new Marquand Art Library and Art Museum wings to be built around the central core of McCormick Hall. The rest of McCormick, aside from this core, will be razed.

WE WANT FOUR HOLES
Variance Asked. Princeton Country Club, on Route One, will come before the Township Zoning Board next Thursday night to ask a variance so that it can lay out four holes of a golf course on 23 acres of land between Stony Brook and the canal, off Quaker Road.

The Club is the Route One complex that includes the Prince Theatre, bowling alley, skating rink and so on. It will build most of its course in West Windsor, but plans to overlap into the Township. A variance is required because the land is in a residential zone and a golf course means business.

Another eight-story faculty apartment has been designed by the University as a companion to the Lakeside Apartments, and the University will appear before the Zoning Board to ask for a variance.

The new structure has been plotted on 158 acres of land between the Pennsylvania railroad line and the present Lakeside Apartments. The property lies between the Borough and West Windsor Township boundaries, in an education zone. A variance is necessary because the area of each individual apartment is below the 400 square feet required by the zoning ordinance.

Borough Hall. However, Borough Hall is in trust "to the people of Princeton" and an arrangement must be worked out with the trustees.

"There is no indication that the trustees are against the exchange," Mayor Patterson said, "and we are hopeful that the arrangement can be worked out."

MAN ADMITS THEFTS

On Route 206, Carl C. Blydenburg, 22, 804 Brunswick Pike, has admitted, according to Township Police, that he entered Ben's Auto Body Shop twice last week and the Princeton Technical Products building located to the rear of Ben's on Route 206.

Blydenburg was arraigned before Township Magistrate James S. Hill on Saturday and committed to the Mercer County Jail without bail on three charges of breaking and entering and larceny. He is awaiting action by the grand jury.

Richard A. Arronzenzi, 20, living in the same apartment house as Blydenburg, was involved by Blydenburg who told police that Arronzenzi had driven him to Ben's on April 29. Arronzenzi was charged with aiding and abetting a breaking and entry. He was released in custody of his lawyer for a new hearing.

Last Thursday, in his second visit to Ben's, Blydenburg reportedly took approximately $18 in change and 11 packs of cigarettes. The same night he used an empty 120-pound lubricant drum to enter a six-foot window of the Princeton Technical Products Company on Cherry Valley Road. He ransacked the building but took nothing, police said.

Earlier, Blydenburg had allegedly stolen about $35 and a six pack of beer from Ben's. In each instance, police said, he gained entry by forcing a rear bathroom window. Detectives Norman Servis and Fred Porter of the Township Police conducted the investigation.

THE BUILDING CENTER

Princeton - Hightstown Road,
Princeton Junction, N. J. SW 9-1500

For Borough Hall. A new Borough Hall may not be at the cornerstone stage, but it seems to be moving closer. Borough Council will hold a public hearing next Tuesday on the ordinance appropriating $5,000 for architects' services in connection with a new building.

Council will also consider the Zoning Board's approval of Princeton Hospital's application for variances so that it can expand

Mayor Henry Patterson, at his Tuesday press conference, said he was "quite optimistic" that legal arrangements can be made for the property exchange involving the present Borough Hall and the Miss Fine's School building. The Borough would like to erect its new hall on the Miss Fine's property, and Princeton Seminary hopes to buy the present of the library's users. A public hearing to approve the necessary bond issue will be held Monday, May 20, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Healy has never approved of the Wiggins Street site. He believes that it is too close to the congested center of town, and inaccessible to parking. He said on Thursday night that he had asked library trustees to give him the facts to bolster their selection "but I received only superficial and inadequate material failing to indicate any thorough study of alternate sites."

Mr. Healy would rather see the library built in Community Gardens, the area near Community Park School and Township Hall, because he thinks it will be the central portion of town as the Borough-Township grows.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman told Committee that the library's information was considerably more complete than Mr. Healy indicated, and he said that the library's consulting specialists had gone over Community Gardens as a possible site. He added that all the consultants favor the downtown, or Wiggins Street site.

Consideration of the site, originally scheduled for an April meeting, had been deferred because Mr. Healy was not present. Committeemen felt that, because of his known opposition to the Wiggins site, they could fairly act on the matter if he were absent.

The Great Train Robbery

Friday afternoon shortly before 6:30, the shuttle train inbound from Princeton Junction was halted by two cars with locked bumpers on the Faculty Road crossing.

As the train crew jumped out to investigate, up road four masked men on horseback. Quickly they made off with their haul: four pretty damsels who happily climbed astride their steeds with them. While the amazed passengers and crew looked on, the bumpers of the blockading cars became miraculously unlocked and they were quickly driven away.

senior class and Susan Moulton as president of the glee club. Joanna Link has been named editor of the Link, the yearbook, and Susan Schildkraut of the Inking, the news paper.

The school has announced that the paper has been awarded an honorable mention in a contest conducted by The Newark News. Jane Aresly, a senior, was named as the second best news writer in the state.

Miss Aresly, presently editor of the yearbook, won the prize for her coverage of the school's art festival. She plans to enter Radcliffe College in the fall.

TEENAGERS ARRESTED

Admit Breaking Window. Two Princeton teenagers have been arrested and charged with malicious mischief by Borough police for throwing seven rocks through a plate glass window of the R. F. Johnson Electrical Fixture Showroom on Tulane Street. The incident, the fourth directed at the same showroom window, took place last week.

Arrested were the drivers of the two cars whom John Nero of 5 Lincoln Court, a witness, reported he saw drive away after hearing the noise of breaking glass. They are Michael Sweeney, 18, 181 N. Harrison Street, and Frederick Petrone, 18, 4 Humbert Street.

After being charged, the pair was released in their own cognizance. A tentative hearing before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., has been scheduled for Monday. Lt. Francis Maguire and Patrolman Donald Forward conducted the investigation.

NINI MOTORS RANSACKED

Money, Cigarettes Taken. Nini Plymouth Co. on Route 206 was ransacked Sunday evening by intruders who forced a window on the north side of the building. Township police said.

Once inside, the thieves roamed throughout the structure. Between two and three dollars were taken from a soda machine that had been pried open and a similar amount was stolen from an open cash register in a supply room. Donald Pitcher, parts manager, reported a carton of cigarettes and approximately $9 missing from the stock room.

A small, undetermined amount of money was taken from a cabinet in the office of the owner, Joseph Nini. The tool box of mechanic Edward Merslack of Trenton was damaged when it was pried open but no tools were taken.

ECHOES FROM AN OLD GRAVEYARD: Rubbings carefully made from the inscriptions and carvings on old gravestones are extraordinarily evocative of ancient times and days and ways. These rubbings are now on display in were carving lively statements of a contemporary art form.

America" and with Ann Parker, is compiling a definitive book which will unravel like a detective story their discovery of Americana among the gravestones.

Gallery Artists. For the next three weeks at the Little Gallery there will be an exhibition of a representative work by each of the "gallery artists." Jacques Kupferman, between travels again, this time after New Orleans and before Maine, shows one of his earlier Norwegian city scenes, an arrangement of white and dark tones familiar to his palette.

Carol Stoddard's "St. Croix Cafe" is alive with figures which, in turn, are alive in color and movement. Dudley Morris, whose painting makes us feel the seaside mixture of sea, sand and mist, gives us fine pleasure in his subtle "Sea Breeze."

Two Maryland artists are represented by abstractions: Peggy Holloway with "Bridges," a pattern of yellow and black and Beth Fiske with "Flower Landscape, a collage with a high patina finish.

Nathan Raisin from New York, likes to collect shells and snails and the origin of his subject matter is Nature. In his semi-abstract, we surprise some of his collection among the lily pads and the algae of underwater life. An abstraction drawing by William Freeland gives a marbled effect from lines in oil on paper, and Freda Milner, the manager of The Little Gallery, is showing two floral decorations in oil on plexiglass, big broad gestures in bright colors, a salute to Spring.

TO ENHANCE A GARDEN

Sculpture On View. Sculpture and forms for the garden will be on view at Gallery 100 through May 25. The Gallery is located at 100 Nassau Street.

Ceramic pieces, including free-form fountains and planters by William Parry and William Daley of the Museum School of Philadelphia will be part of the display. Small sculptured figures by Clem Renzi of New York will also be in the exhibition.

EXHIBITION SCHEDULED

For Governor's Mansion. The Princeton Jaycee Art Exhibition will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 15 and 16, at Morven, the Governor's mansion.

Thomas C. Jamieson, Jr., chairman of the committee in charge of the event, said that art groups in Princeton and surrounding communities have been notified of the exhibition. The committee expressed the hope that the display would encourage new artists to show their work.

ART In Princeton

RUBBINGS IN FIRESTONE

Art in the Graveyard. An afternoon stroll in the cemetery used to be a pleasant Sunday afternoon outing for the family in "the old days" before the automobile. Some of us still enjoy meandering through an overgrown country graveyard, spinning our own tales around the suggestive reliefs and inscriptions.

Two young artists, Ann Parker and Avon Neal, have driven thousands of miles and strolled through hundreds of graveyards, not only for enjoyment but in search of clues to a long unnoticed source of early American primitive art. Their findings have contributed a fascinating new chapter to the history of our native art. From their collection of rubbings, taken from stones all over New England, comes proof that the stonecutters of the most active period between 1650 and 1800 were not just reciting cold facts or portraying images of Death, but

OTHER PAPERS in Princeton will run your classified advertising for half-price, or free of charge if your for sale ads don't sell. In TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

An exhibition of the rubbings is open in the Graphic Arts Room of Firestone Library and will continue through June, so there is plenty of time for your Sunday's walk among the tombstones. Far from being ghoulish, this is a surprisingly entertaining show, and informative.

The stonecutters were not all artisans by profession; a sea captain loaded his stone on board with the cargo and chipped away while tossing at sea, the Head of the Town Meeting in Worcester became equally noted as "the thistle carver." Although quite individual in their style, due to the remoteness of their towns and lives, most of the stonecutters related their work to the times.

Familiar with the popular entertainment of projecting and cutting silhouettes, they liked to use the character profile. Sometimes they preferred symbols; monkeys, a bumblebee with a hedgehog head, a "relaxed skeleton," birds, flowers, crowns or other promises of happy things to come. All of the stones "read artistically," and are stylized, primitive and frequently abstract.

"Here lies . . ." Many of the accompanying epitaphs are quaint indeed and bear deciphering in the faint, old fashioned lettering. On the headstone of a young man it reads: "Sacred to the memory of Amasa Brainard who received a mortal wound on his head by the falling of a weight from the Bell . . . as he was about to enter the church to attend a divine worship." Have they found our favorite in Plymouth, Mass. "Here lies the body of Sarah Kent who kicked up her heels and away she went!"

Rubbings which are done on mulberry paper in earth-tone inks bring out many textures and details hard to see with the naked eye. Each rubbing is an original and in limited edition. Along with their research which is being encouraged by a Ford Foundation Grant, Avon Neal has written an article which appears in the May issue of "Art in

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO
TOWN TOPICS, May 8, 1958: At about midnight the preceding Wednesday, Patrolmen Russell Shangle and Richard Panicaro had hurriedly answered a call reporting three shotgun blasts. The two officers succeeded in rounding up nine culprits—five Princetonians and four Trentonians—who had all been involved in previous juvenile skirmishes.

The officers had found that two of the blasts had not hit anything, but the third had peppered the front of a car from Trenton. Inside an auto occupied by the Princeton group, they found the shotgun, 20 shells, a razor-sharp machete and a wooden club.

Arraigned in magistrate's court, four of the Princeton youths were placed under $3,000 bond each and referred to the Grand Jury for further investigation of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon. The fifth, a juvenile, was sent directly to Juvenile Court in Trenton. The four weaponless Trentonians were released.

Andrew Imbrie, of 20 Hibben Road, gifted Princeton-bred composer had earned plaudits galore the preceding week for his "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra," a four-year effort which had "shone in a galaxy of impressive premieres" at the festival dedicating the University of California music center at Berkeley. Mr. Imbrie—then "a comparative unknown," to quote Lucie Time magazine—was responsible for "the most exciting sounds" from all of the composers whose works were presented.

TOWN TOPICS had this to say in 1958 about a newly-organized undergraduate club:

"If you see a man hurtling through space, it will be neither the beginning of a Martian invasion, a Russian pilot suddenly separated from his Sputnik, nor even cause for alarm.

"What you'll see in the skies above the intersection of Province Line Road and the Princeton Pike will be one or more members of the Princeton Parachute Club making delayed jumps. A delayed jump is a free fall of eight to 15 seconds' duration before the cord is pulled to open the chute.

"The sleeve of the chute, in which it is encased before opening, floats away after the cord is pulled. It is not a chute that opened improperly, and there is no need, the club emphasizes, to call the police—who know all about it already."

Tom Lehrer, one-time Harvard mathematician-turned-entertainer, had busted McCarter wide open that past week-end in a magnificent one-man show "that puts Victor Borge to shame and defies description. . . ." Much of his notoriety, he had explained modestly, was due to the fact that he "recently finished a translation of 'The Wizard of Oz' into Latin and is hard at work on a musical comedy based on the life of Adolf Hitler."

TOWN TOPICS' reviewer continued "This young and improper Bostonian has a sense of humor that is warped so thoroughly that the shape his wit is in seems perfect. He has a sardonic touch that leaves no sacred stone unturned."

TEN YEARS AGO
TOWN TOPICS, May 7, 1953: Princetonians who thought that they had never seen as much rain as had fallen in the preceding three months were absolutely right. Total precipitation for February, March and April had exceeded all weather bureau records kept for any three-month period in the previous 67 years.

Residents of Montgomery County were still desperately fighting a hopeless battle against the operation of a large quarry by the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company. Petitions in opposition had been signed by more than two-thirds of the residents of voting age; a mere handful had indicated approval of the company's plans to locate there.

Despite the eventual flouting of majority opinion however, and the establishment of the quarrying operations, the 3Ms Company did not cause one prediction to come true.

Dr. Russell Carrier, representing the Belle Mead Sanatorium, the township's largest taxpayer then, reported that quarrying and blasting in the area would cause the institution to close. Today, the blasting may be booming but so is the Carrier Clinic (as it is now called).

May 1953 notes on a Princeton football name: Kazmaier (a dog) had been lost, according to a classified ad: Kazmaier (the All-American) had announced his plans to get married the next month and to live in Princeton during the summer.

"Princeton High School," wrote TOWN TOPICS' theatre reviewer, "took mighty aim with its production of 'Carousel' by Rodgers and Hammerstein and scored a direct hit. In fact, to take on the staging of a major musical with such success is a staggering accomplishment of which any school in the world could be proud."

Nominee for TOWN TOPICS' Man of the Week was Ledlie Irwin Laughlin, who was struggling for the last time with the problems of admitting another freshman class to the University. Described by a colleague as the "most loyal and conscientious worker I have ever known," Mr. Laughlin was cited "for personifying what he has sought in others, namely 'those basic qualities which make up the useful life,' for his 'wide and sane humanity' in interpreting the aims and needs of higher education and for his self-effacing devotion to the things he believes in."

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
TOWN TOPICS, May 6, 1918: The eight-page issue was a mere pamphlet three columns wide, nine inches deep compared with the current 1963 record-breaking issue of 56 pages (no issue save two this past Christmas have ever exceeded 48).

As in 1963, houseparties on Prospect Street were in the news in May 1948. One typical tale preceded the fun week-end then: Without a date as the festivities approached, Senior Frank Kirchof of Denver had heard about an attractive girl, introduced himself by telephone and hustled into New York for get-acquainted cocktails.

His invitation (first of dozens she received for similar college events elsewhere) was accepted. Kirchof's date was to be Gwyned Filling, "career girl" pictured on the preceding week's cover of Life.

Presidential aspirant Harold Stassen's bid to Princetonians was to be followed by one from then Senator Robert A. Taft, who was scheduled to appear in town later in the month. Meanwhile, Alabama Governor "Kissin' Jim" Folsom was to launch his northern campaign to beat President Truman that next Tuesday on the campus.

As it turned out, of course, not Stassen, not Taft, not Folsom, nor even the eventual Republican nominee, Tom Dewey, could rack up enough votes to oust Uncle Harry from his job.

When taxi-driver Joseph E. Nutt, Jr., had parted with $40 on May 3, 1948, in answer to the pistol being poked into his ribs, he became the first hold-up victim in Princeton in years. . . . By 1963 the rate of stick-ups, like everything else, had increased, though Princeton's deserved reputation for being a well-policed community kept handlity to a minimum.

DIVING FOR TREASURE

Scuba Is True Adventure. Springtime, sunken ships and buried treasure will lure the Rev. Charles W. Marker, 52, to Barnegat Light on Saturday, May 11 for wreck diving in his scuba gear.

"There's no telling what we'll find," says the muscular, six-foot pastor of Princeton Methodist Church. "We'll rent a boat and go about two miles out. We'll take along a captain who knows where the wrecks are."

Another scuba adventure is slated for this summer. He'll search for Revolutionary War relics at the bottom of Lake George.

"The lake was a highway between Fort Ticonderoga and Fort William Henry," he says. "An acquaintance of mine found four muskets from Lord Howe's ill-fated expedition sticking right up in 140 feet of water." His grey-blue eyes glinted. "I didn't find anything last summer, but I'm going back!"

"Silent World." The Rev. Mr. Marker, a graduate of Temple University, studied for the ministry at Nyack Missionary School and Princeton Theological Seminary. He took to fins and "wet" suit in October, 1961.

"I was influenced by Jacques-Yves Cousteau's book, 'The Silent World.' Scuba diving is sort of an extension of my natural interests." He enrolled in the scuba class at the YMCA, where he now teaches. He's a mountain climber who has explored the Adirondacks and the Green Mountains, a strong swimmer, a canoeist and cross-country hiker who ticked off 70 miles at Silver Bay, N.Y. last August while Bobby Kennedy was still in the swimming pool.

Hazards? You Bet! He scuba in quarries at Stewartville and in Pennsylvania, and comments casually, "There are some natural hazards. You have to look out for tumbling rock, landslides, collapsing tunnels. Your gear can get tangled in submerged objects — old wire, that sort of thing. You have to keep a cool head."

He spent one vacation deep in the waters off St. Croix in the Caribbean, and he's explored the ocean bottom off Manasquan Inlet.

"The marine hazards are tides and current. In wreck diving, the current can hurt

a swimmer against the ship and he's in trouble.

"You have to be alert for sharks, barracuda, moray eels, venomous fish. At St. Croix, a barracuda made a strike at the bright gleam of a diver's knife — and struck him. The wound didn't seem serious at the time, but it infected badly. Those barracuda swim at 40 mph. They flash at you and there's not much time to escape."

"As for sharks — most spear guns would bounce off a shark like a pop gun. They have a hide like a rhinoceros. A swimmer has very little chance. The best thing is to get out of there fast and hope he hasn't seen you!"

"Of course, if you can't you try to get the shark in the eye or snout with your diving knife. Most of the time they will not attack, but sharks are unpredictable."

"The minister added thoughtfully, "You know, it's panic that kills more scuba divers than anything else."

In his YMCA scuba class, he looks for strong swimmers who feel completely at home in the water. "A person who has severe emotional problems shouldn't scuba dive. And they shouldn't if they're alcoholics, or subject to claustrophobia, or fear of the dark or fear of being alone. When we give the students their first "open" dive at the quarry, we can usually tell them whether they're going to panic or not."

Scuba Gear. Scuba divers wear a tight, black neoprene "wet" suit, so-called because the water seeps under the suit ("There's no way of keeping it out!"). The thin layer of water next to the skin heats up and acts as an insulator. "I've dived at temperatures of 36° - 33° and felt comfortable," the 175-lb. clergyman says.

The full rig also includes bant, gloves, helmet, mask, snorkel, fins, weight-belt, diving knife, a pressurized watch, depth gauge and sometimes a compass. All this, plus a 40-lb. air tank and air regulator.

"The tank holds compressed air—not oxygen as people generally think. Pure oxygen would be lethal below 33 feet."

He adds, "How long the air lasts depends on how deep you're going. One hour's supply on the surface will last 30 minutes at 33 feet, 20 minutes at 66 feet, or 15 minutes at 99 feet."

Underwater Binge. "Sometimes you'll see a swimmer do madly foolish things, such as hand his mouthpiece to a passing fish. This is "nitrogen narcosis," one of the built-in hazards of scuba diving.

"It's an intoxication which becomes very serious at 150 feet and below. The diver loses power to coordinate. He can't think clearly. I know of a woman who went absolutely limp at 200 feet. She would have drowned if her swimming buddy hadn't noticed."

Divers down more than 25 minutes at 100 feet and below have to return to the surface slowly, stopping at specific levels for specific times. This allows the nitrogen to get out of their systems, and prevents the dreaded "bends." Most sports divers avoid all of this by not going deep enough to require decompression.

"Scuba is a wonderful sport, and I only point out these hazards so that people will not try it without thorough training. With the proper training, it is reasonably safe."

Wonder World And it's an exciting sport, filled with discoveries. "You see underwater life, rock formations, coral, shells. The fish have little or no fear of you."

"Some people enjoy spear fishing, collecting shells, underwater photography. Others, such as archaeologists, marine geologists and biologists, go in for serious study. Then there's wreck diving and salvage."

Mrs. Marker is not one to be left behind on scuba expeditions. The mother of two grown children, she "skin dives" along the surface of the water with mask, snorkel and fins. "But she's had the scuba tank on a few times," her husband says.

Scuba Club. The Rev. Mr. Marker is president of the Princeton Skin and Scuba Diving Club. Other water adventurers in the group are Mrs. Marker, Dr. J. Guy Woodward, Mrs. Charlotte Christianson, Rod MacKinnon, a teenager, Jean Keller, Hugh Wylie, Samuel Shoemaker, Oliver Drake, James Smith, Dr. Bart Stevens, Joseph Kelly, co-instructor of the YMCA scuba class; Harold Warner, Mrs. Florence Lenhardt, Warren Kock, Robert Buckler, Leslie Burns and Lyle Saxton.

Most of the YMCA students learn scuba and skin diving as a sport. "But two of them, a professor from the University and his assistant, are going to dive in connection with geology. Another is a wife preparing to dive with her husband off the coast of Turkey." A former student, Carl High, found a job at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute. "Scuba whetted his interest in marine life. Now he'll be traveling all over the world."

THREE FINED

In Township Court. Three Princeton drivers were fined and two had their licenses temporarily revoked in Township Court last week.

Wayne R. Whitlock, 23, of 100 Stockton Street was fined $35 and his license revoked for 30 days for speeding. Robert D. Moore, 31, of 117 Spruce Street was fined $30 and his license revoked for 30 days for careless driving.

Thomas U. Purrington, 68, of 199 Harrison Street was fined $15 for failing to yield to traffic when leaving his driveway. All three pleaded guilty.

PROFESSOR TO SPEAK

On Non-Armed Intervention. Dr. Amitai Etzioni, assistant professor of sociology at Columbia University, will give a public lecture Friday under the auspices of the Princeton Area Faculty Group on Public Issues. The lectures will begin at 8 in 10 McCosh Hall.

Dr. Etzioni, a research associate at Columbia's Institute of War and Peace Studies, will speak on "A Strategy for Non-Armed Intervention." He is the founder of the Councils for the Gradualist Way to Peace.

Dr. Etzioni's lecture is the third in the series of talks this year presented by the faculty group. Previous speakers were Prof. Bernard Feld, physicist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Richard J. Barnet, acting director of the Institute for Policy Studies, Washington, D. C.

JOINT MEETING PLANNED

By Township P.T.A. The Township Parent-Teacher Associations will hold a joint meeting Tuesday at 8 in the Community Park School. The public is invited to attend.

David Hogenauer of the Valley Road School faculty will be the guest speaker. Mr. Hogenauer, a social studies teacher, will describe his recent trip to India and will show color slides and play tape recordings of Indian life.

PLANS SUBMITTED

For $1,880,000 School. The Hopewell Township Board of Education has submitted plans for a proposed $1,880,000 junior high school to the State Commissioner of Education.

Approval at the state level must be obtained prior to a bond issue referendum scheduled for June 6. The governing bodies of the township and Pennington borough have already endorsed the project.

Following approval by state authorities, there will be a public hearing in Central High School before the June 6 referendum. The school board has obtained an option on 43 acres of land on South Timberlane Drive and the Pennington-Titusville Road across from Central High.

James C. Sandilos, school superintendent, said that the project is aimed at meeting increased school enrollments. The school will prevent double sessions and a general deterioration of educational standards throughout the district, he added.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD

For Business Women. Members of the Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club will gather Monday for their annual meeting, and on Friday, May 17, delegates from the club will travel to Atlantic City for the three-day annual convention of the New Jersey Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The annual meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Helen Kleiber, second vice-president and membership chairman, Canal Road, Griggstown.

What Princeton Is Reading This Spring

Two books, so widely different in appeal that it seems preposterous to mention them in the same list, appear more than once this month on TOWN TOPICS' regular list of "What Princeton is reading."

They are Daphne du Maurier's romantic historical novel, "The Glass Blowers" and Hannah Arendt's incisive, "On Revolution."

Here is the current best-seller list for Princeton:

Fiction

"The $100 Misunderstanding," by Robert Gover (Male's Book Shop).

"The Glass Blowers," by Daphne du Maurier (University Store and Princeton Book Mart).

Non-Fiction

"The Feminine Mystique," by Betty Friedan (Male's Book Shop).

"On Revolution," by Hannah Arendt (University Store).

"The Price of Glory," by Alistair Horne (Princeton Book Mart).

Recommended . . .

"On Revolution," by Hannah Arendt (Princeton Book Mart).

"Morte d'Urban," by J. F. Powers (Male's Book Shop).

"The Ordeal of Power: A Political Memoir of the Eisenhower Years," by Emmett J. Hughes (University Store).

At this meeting, the nominating committee composed of Miss Louise Maas, Mrs. Grace Downs and Miss Kathryn Helm, will submit a proposed slate of officers for next year.

Reports will be given by Mrs. Anne P. Dennen, Personal Development chairman; Mrs. Mary G. Reef, Civic Participation; Miss Maas, World Affairs; Mrs. Kleiber, membership; Miss Genevieve Harmon, public relations and Mrs. Jenny Corlese, program.

Delegates to Atlantic City will be Mrs. Helen Kraus, Mrs. Nina Harrison and Mrs. Ethel Yeoman. Alternates will be Mrs. Helen Stevenson, Miss Alice Braveman and Miss Harmon.

19 CLASSROOMS NEEDED

To Cover Next Five Years. Montgomery Township residents will vote June 23 on the board of education's planned 19 room addition to the Montgomery Elementary School. A $580,000 bond issue is proposed to cover costs.

Using current population estimates, the school board anticipates being able to house all elementary students in the enlarged building through June of 1967.

John P. Van Zandt, board president, has invited residents to examine the architect's preliminary drawings of the two-wing addition. The board has offered to meet with interested groups prior to the formal public hearing, set for June 20.

The expanded school would provide space for about 800 students, from kindergarten through eighth grade. Expected to be completed in the winter of 1964-65, the building plans also call for an enlarged cafeteria, which would double as assembly room, and increased boiler, utility, storage, sewerage and parking facilities.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO GAIN

From Fashion Show. The Borough Teachers' Association fashion show will be held Tuesday, May 21, at 8, in the Princeton High School auditorium.

MAYTIME IS FAIRTIME

At Princeton Country Day, Hand-painted faces and big straw hats, puppet shows and whirl-away rides and a wonderful May sun—or so it is hoped—over all. That's the PCD Fair, a springtime Princeton Institution for 15 years.

The Fair will be held this Saturday from 11:30 to 4:30 on the grounds of the school, Broadmead. Both sides of Broadmead, if previous years are any indication.

At the climax of the Fair, around 4 p.m. Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, well-known parent of two PCD boys, will crown the King and Queen of the Fair, following a spirited election in which ballot-box stuffing is not only allowed but encouraged. Anybody can win.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Gorman and Frederick Wandell are election clerks. Presumably appointed by the Governor.

Winner Gets Bradley. A special basketball contest for children under 14 will have a very special prize: a basketball autographed by the Princeton University basketball team, including, of course, Bill Bradley. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Benson are in charge. Coach William H. Van Breda Kolff has been signed up to make the presentation.

At 1 p.m., there will be a trampoline exhibition by top-flight students from Estil Mills YMCA classes. Mr. Mills himself will supervise trampoline jumping for ticket-holders, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lamar and Mrs. David J. Rose.

AS THE TWIG IS BENT: What about the juvenile situation in Princeton? "It's horrible," says Mrs. Anthony Nini. It's the parents, in the opinion of Bernard Weinstein. But as one teenager put it: "It's hard to be nice to people who aren't being nice to you." All agree it is a problem. For comments on it from both sides, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the juvenile situation here in Princeton?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Mrs. John Brinster, 271 Mercer Road, housewife: Well, I think it is something that bears a great deal of study and watching by all responsible people in the town. I do think we have to be careful not to jump overboard with anxiety as it may prove to be only an isolated instance or two. It may indicate that we need more facilities for extra-curricular entertainment for teenagers of a suitable nature. It is sort of shocking to hear about those party crashings, though.

Paul J. Hill, 9 Morgan Place, merchant: I feel a lot of people in this town are shocked by what's going on but they don't know what to do about it, like myself. I don't know if it is a question of law enforcement or what—there really isn't much the law can do—but I think some firm steps should be taken by proper authorities to make sure there is no repetition of what happened within the last few months. I can't understand why they let those boys off with a suspended sentence. What good is that? In other words, they got away with it. I think someone has got to be made an example of. In the end, I think it's a matter of parental discipline more than anything else. There is a parental obligation here to teach their children manners and proper behavior—what is right and what is wrong.

Miss Mary Barlow, 236 Nassau Street, waitress: I'm a waitress and I've experienced it first hand. Most of those experiences have been nice; some of them haven't been so nice. I believe every teenager should have a chance. I don't believe when there is a group that is out of control, the others should be punished. I think many times teenagers are treated unfairly. They aren't perfect to be sure. They have problems and they need help and guidance, just as we did when we were their age. There are a few who you can't do anything with but you can't wring your hands over all teenagers because of the actions of a few and I'm afraid this is what's happened. I know whenever I have been firm but fair with them where I work they always respected me for it later.

Mrs. Wesley Konover, 13 Patton Avenue, registered nurse: I am quite concerned about this party crashing going on. I've heard of this going on for years—this is nothing new—but I do think we are being made more aware of it. Since it has been going on for such a long time I'm glad it is coming out in the open. I do have one suggestion to make. If anyone is having a party they should notify the police so they can keep an eye on things and nip in the bud anything that might develop. That way they might be able to prevent these things from happening.

Ralph Nelson, 144 Alexander Street, graduate student, chemistry: I think a community recreation—swimming area more readily available than the YMCA would be a welcome addition to the area. I understand there is a need for that. I was chased once by some teenagers but I don't attribute much to it. I think it is all part of people living next to people. In the three years that I've been here, it's been pretty quiet. I don't think Princeton is worse than any other place.

Mrs. Anthony Nini, 377 Walnut Lane, housewife: I think it's horrible and I think it is about time we stop babying these kids. I think it's time we make them get out and work for it, if they want something. Their parents—everyone—babies them too much today. They're spoiled. It's awful! It stems from the parents because the parents are trying to do too much: clubs, meetings, working longer hours so they can give their children what they want. Because of this lack of parental attention, the children grow up before their time. By the time they are 10 years old, there is nothing left for them to want or need; they've had everything.

Bernard Weinstein, 30 Mercer Street, merchant: I think we, as adults, must open our eyes before it is too late and it certainly has been too late for as long as I can remember. Parents must find more time to be with their children. As for the teenagers, if we are going to put our streets off limits to them, we must give them a place to go. We must give them some adult supervision from some of our outstanding citizens who would be even more outstanding if they would devote some of their time and abilities to young people. Let's get the most from our tax dollar. Let it be a multi-purpose dollar. Let's open our schools to the children for sports, dances and crafts. The ques-

Person To Person

Cary S. Kommier

An acquaintance said, "Counterfeiting of money apparently is something we will always have with us, at least intermittently, but it is not the threat and scourge it once was, thanks to the efficiency of our law enforcement officers and the stable currency we enjoy today." "It is reported that prior to 1860 money frauds of various kinds were widespread, and at one time more than five thousand different kinds of counterfeit bank notes were actually in circulation. The average person could hardly tell the difference between good and bad bills." Thank goodness nowadays there are few losses due to counterfeiting, but the losses suffered through buying the "wrong" services or products undoubtedly run into millions more than was ever lost due to counterfeiting. It isn't just in the buying but in how you're handled after the sale that can either save or cost you hundreds of dollars. Our business is built on the kind of integrity that assures you of the greatest savings and satisfaction. . . . This we pledge to you Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

tion for next week should be, "What should we do about the adult situation here in Princeton? because it seems to me that the problem remains with the adult. We must wake up because our children are really the most important thing to us in our lives.

Raymond Grover, 33 Chestnut Street, employee, Cousin's Liquor Store. Unfortunately, I believe we are having some problems. Most of them, I believe, can be blamed on a lack of playing space for young people both outdoors and indoors. Chiefly, I think parents don't spend enough time with their children. You can't sacrifice time for money.

Mrs. Thomas F. Pedrose, Franklin Park, housewife: I don't live in Princeton but I have been reading about the problems they've been having with teenagers. For one thing, Princeton has a fine YMCA which I think would be of tremendous help in fighting any juvenile problems. I think recreational activities are always good for any child because it gives him something to center his attention on rather than get into trouble. I think the more these facilities can be used the more it will benefit Princeton and its young people.

Stan Link, 26 Mercer Street, Princeton High School junior: I think a lot more has been made of this than is really there. It's going to happen in any town. It is something to be expected. Also, this business of Negroes crashing white parties. This has nothing to do with any juvenile problem; it is something on a much broader scale. It has something to do with the differences between the two races.

Dorothy MacKenzie, Dutch Neck, Princeton High School junior: It's pretty bad. I think they should have a midnight curfew on weekdays. The juveniles aren't that bad, though. They just don't have any place to go. This is especially true for the boys. What's the use of a boy going to a garage at night, stripping down a car, working hard, and then not have a place to run it? I think Princeton should get out and organize a drag strip under parental supervision. It could just be a street closed off. There could be recreation there for everybody—cokes, a juke box, hot dog stand. There should be some supervision, of course, but let's not have somebody at your elbow all the time saying you can't do this or you can't do that. Instead of people downgrading teenagers in Princeton, they should help them out. Don't throw mud in our faces.

Art Brooks, Hopewell, junior, newly-elected president of the Princeton High School student council: I think it is a situation that can't be blamed on the kids. I feel it actually branches from the home. Parents take it for granted that their children can take care of themselves. There's no solution that I know of unless parents begin to take a little more responsibility for the actions of their children.

Ingrid Buck, Prospect Avenue Ext., Princeton High School sophomore: I think there should be a homecoming weekend and homecoming dance for Princeton High School students, something for everyone to join in. Classes could compete in making the best float. We don't have anything to do here. There is no school spirit. A few kids come to the games but they just sit and smoke. We need something like a homecoming day. But the people of Princeton wouldn't like it. It's all so high society here. Everything is so elite just because Princeton University is here. Well, there is a high school in Princeton, too. And many people forget it!

John Gallaudet, Edgerstone Road, Princeton High School freshman: I think it has gotten better. There is much more to do than there used to be. You can play tennis, go to the movies, go bowling, go swimming, go to the library. The facilities are here if teenagers want to use them.

Miss Nancy Dailey, Blawenburg, Princeton High School freshman: I think they should have a restaurant or some place for the kids to hang around. There is no place for girls to go in Princeton. They don't let any of the high school kids in any of the restaurants here. They don't actually tell us to get out, they just discourage us in a hundred ways. This is more of a problem for the boys in town. There is no place for them to take a date after a movie. I think if a person had enough nerve to organize and establish a teen center, he'd make money on it. But it would have to be strictly regulated.

Susan Bardwell, Dodds Lane, Princeton High School sophomore: It's not good because there is no place for kids to go. They need a place for girls to go where they are would be welcome. Did you know that Princeton High students and Princeton students only have to pay a five-cent cover charge in town. We have to order something worth at least a quarter just to be able to sit down. If we leave a tip we still have to pay the cover charge. It gets so you just don't feel like leaving a tip. It's hard to be nice to people who aren't being nice to you. You try your darndest to be nice and they just throw mud at you. Parents think we have gobs of money and they're crazy. We need a place of our own. But parents should try to understand we don't like 500 million chaperones milling around either.

Mrs. Philip Hammond is the new chairman of the Princeton Neighborhood Association, and Mrs. Frank T. Gorman has been named to the nominating committee.

West Windsor and Plainsboro, which will form an independent neighborhood association within the new Council, have elected as delegates Mrs. Frank Danley, Mrs. Milton Shinn and Mrs. Raymond Conover. Mrs. Richard Anderson and Mrs. Joseph Wilson are alternates, and Mrs. Robert Holiday will serve as neighborhood chairman.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

Police Make Film. Every off-duty cop who has sat in front of a TV set and watched "Naked City" has had a secret ambition to get in front of a camera and show those guys how a policeman really acts.

Members of the Borough police force have just had that chance. They served as actors for a training film, "Search and Seizure," produced by Industrial Education Films, Inc. for the Institute for Law Enforcement, both of 195 Nassau, L. Hamilton Holton, Pennington, produced and directed.

Police assumed various roles. For example, Thomas Procaerino played a patrolman who searched a suitcase without a warrant, Ralph A. Procaerino and William J. Guinn portrayed plainclothesmen and John J. Bellow, Jr. stepped across the line of the law to portray a fur coat thief. Others who participated in the film were Sgts. Robert J. Anderson and James Kopliner, Patrolmen Theodore H. Lewis, John Markuson, Douglass Watson, Charles D. Harris, Donald Forward and Arthur T. Jackson.

Civilians who assumed roles in the film were Assemblyman Charles E. Farrington who played a district attorney, Township Magistrate James S. Hill who played a judge, and Joseph A. Dougherty, Ralph Hotchkiss, Andrew P. Sayles, Dolores Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Raymond and William Frye.

Also Edward M. Esposito, Edgar Von Schmitt, John Ranallo, Robert D. McCarthy and, from Pennington, Michael A. Travers, Ellsworth Gosling, Spencer Barber, Jr., Kathleen McGuire, Graham Mathews, Douglas C. Metcalf and Janet Stevens.

$3,100 COLLECTED

By Hospital Drive. The Princeton Hospital Aid Committee has collected $3,100 in its semi-annual rummage sale. Mrs. Edward Marshall was in charge of the sale and was assisted by 90 committee members. Mrs. O. Kline Fulmer is president of the organization and Mrs. Paul G. Herkert is treasurer.

The committee has expressed its thanks to the Hook and Ladder and Chemical Company Number One for use of the building and the Princeton Cleaning and Floor Waxing Corporation for its help with transportation. In addition to the semi-annual sales, the committee contributes to the hospital by managing and staffing the hospital's aid shop and the gift cart.

SURVEY PLANNED

By YWCA Group. The YWCA Teen Committee is planning a survey to study the need for a drop-in lounge in Princeton.

The committee, under the direction of Mrs. James McKeever, will undertake the survey for the Y's board of directors. Questions studied by the group will include the type of lounge best suited for the community; the cost of opening and maintaining the lounge; and the role the Y would play in its operation.

The need for such a lounge has been discussed widely in the past four to five years. But the committee felt that there was a good deal of difference of opinion concerning the project. All area residents interested in the project are encouraged to notify Mrs. Janet Humes or Mrs. Jean Starks of the YWCA staff.

PRIVATE SWORN IN ### TOUR GUIDE READY

For Princeton Visitors. An illustrated folder called "Follow In Washington's Footsteps," designed to serve as a guide to a motor tour of historic sites and battlefields of the Revolutionary War campaign in the Princeton-Trenton area, has just been published by the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

The free folder, which includes a detailed map of the region using present road names, is now available at hotels, motels, restaurants and other locations. Copies may also be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce office, 55 Palmer Square West.

Text of the pamphlet contains a brief account of the campaign, followed by descriptive notes about the major historical points of interest designated by number on the map. While the route is laid out in a loop, the trip can start at any point of interest along the way.

The motorist can cover the entire trip in a minimum of about three hours by merely driving past the early American landmarks on the route. The tour passes through Kingston, Rocky Hill, Princeton, Hopewell, Pennington, Lawrenceville and Washington's Crossing plus an optional drive into Trenton.

The guide was published under the supervision of council member David W. Sidford, sales manager for The Nassau Inn. Historical research was conducted by Mrs. Robert Greiff, 17 Clover Lane, and production was done by Lenhart & Company, Princeton advertising agency.

Rx: ONE VEHICLE (PRN)

For Thorne Pharmacy. In order to reduce the time between the ordering of medicine and its delivery to a customer, The Thorne Pharmacy this week prescribed for itself a small pickup truck, quickly nicknamed the "PRN" by Thorne owners Paul A. Ashton and E. Everett Campbell.

The truck's name comes from directions frequently written on prescriptions and accurately describes the vehicle's purpose. PRN is the abbreviation for the Latin "Pro Re Nata" or, in English, "Take as Needed." Similarly, the truck will not be held to any rigid schedule but will make deliveries as soon as prescriptions are filled.

branch in Princeton Junction has had its own delivery service for the past year and a half. The new truck for its Princeton drug store gives it the only pharmacy-owned delivery service in town.

25 HOMES PLANNED

For Montgomery Park. The number of houses built, a-building, and to be built in the Montgomery Park area will not exceed 25, according to Charles Egner, of Shady Brook Lane, president of the Tri-State Development Corporation, which is in charge of the project. Of the 25, seven are already finished and occupied and eight others are either ready for occupancy or are under construction.

The area, which is located on Montgomery Road off of Route 206, one-half mile north of the junction of Routes 206 and 518, gives homeowners a view of the Hopewell Valley and the Sourland Mountains. Although there are now nine different but harmonious styles of houses available, Mr. Egner says that Tri-State will also build homes using plans supplied by individual future owners.

Present residents of the area include families of two doctors, two college professors, and a research engineer. High school students in Montgomery Park attend Princeton High School, and transportation to metropolitan centers is provided by buses from Princeton Shopping Center, the Pennsylvania (4½ miles away) and the Reading at Belle Mead (three miles away).

Homes available for immediate occupancy are priced from $25,500. Further information may be obtained through Mr. Egner at WA 1-2628 or at WA 4-6909.

Chrysler to Nini

The Chrysler automobile franchise for the Princeton area has just been given to Nini Plymouth, Inc., according to agency head Anthony D. Nini. Nini Plymouth is situated in Princeton Township on Route 206, where it moved in March 1961 from its previous location at 300 Witherspoon Street.

Mr. Nini, whose agency previously held the Chrysler franchise during 1957 and 1958, says that his organization will now handle the full line of Chryslers, as well as the Plymouth and Valiant sales in Princeton.

535 EMPLOYEES MOVED

By McGraw-Hill, Hightstown. McGraw-Hill Publishing Company of New York completed its second major move of employees to its new Hightstown plant this week.

A total of more than 1,000 workers are presently employed at the area branch of the publishing firm. In the last ten days, the company has shifted 535 to Hightstown to add to the 500 who have been working there since November.

The new employees are in the departments of advertising records, circulation fulfillment files, circulation sales, publication circulation methods and computer programming, direct mail and circulation fulfillment and records. The company is currently seeking some 120 employees for its next transfer.

Three departments of the F. W. Dodge Corporation, a subsidiary of McGraw-Hill, will be moved in late fall. The Hightstown offices have been open since November with the dedication held in February.

ORC SUBSIDIARY FORMED

To Be Based In New York. Formation of a new market research subsidiary, Market Insights, Inc., has been announced by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton. Joseph C. Bevis, ORC chairman, said that the new organization will "specialize in exploratory and developmental research using group and depth interview techniques."

In addition, the subsidiary will on occasion undertake full-scale surveys. President of Market Insights is Dr. Shoi B. Dickenson, a specialist in consumer research and formerly a research director at Opinion Research Corporation.

Prior to joining ORC, Dr. Dickenson headed his own research firm in Los Angeles. She has also taught at the University of California and at Los Angeles State College and holds Ph.D., M.A. and A.B. degrees in sociology from the University of California. Headquarters for the new firm are located at 39 West 55th Street in New York.

'CINDER CIRCUS' HERE
Heptagonal Track Meet Due.
The 29th annual Heptagonal Games, a colorful, frequently-fascinating track meet among ten eastern colleges, will be staged Saturday in Palmer Stadium involving the eight Ivy colleges plus Army and Navy, the event returns to Princeton for the first time since 1955.

It should be an enjoyable afternoon for members of the Yale Club of Princeton, whose number runs into the hundreds. The Elis are favored to win their fourth straight title, with Army and Harvard given the best chance to provide an upset. Last week in Palmer Stadium, Yale showed good balance and great strength in the field in trimming Princeton, 90 to 59.

Seventeen events are on the program, with the first field event scheduled to start at 12:30 and the first track event an hour later. The only change this year is the lengthening of the low hurdles distance from 220 to 440 yards, with the result that the winner will automatically create a Heptagonal record.

Eight defending champions will seek to repeat. One of them wears Orange and Black: John Hartnett, who won the high jump as a sophomore last spring when the Heptagonals were staged at Hanover.

Hartnett holds the Princeton record of 6 feet, 8 inches in his specialty. The only other Princetonian expected to have a good shot at an individual title is Charlie Mitchell in the pole vault.

Mitchell has cleared 15 feet, a height that may be good enough to win Saturday. Otherwise, the cage-less Princetonians are sufficiently hampered by the need to practice outdoors all winter so that they will not begin to move up in the Heptagonal hierarchy until their training facilities are on a par with the top teams.

Specialists Help. It is not, of course, just a question of producing a good track team once a cage is available. Top talent is also essential, and on occasion it comes from outside the continental U. S.

For example, Harvard will produce Chris Ohiri from Nigeria and Aggrey Awori from Uganda, both eye-catching performers. Ohiri, who is also a whale of a soccer player, is a sprinter of great ability.

Awori paced Harvard in a 79-69 upset of Army last month when he accounted for 23 points, first place in the 100, the 220, the low hurdles and the broad jump and second place in the high hurdles. When he trailed teammate Hank Hatch in the high hurdles, it marked the first time he had been beaten in a collegiate hurdles race.

Yale's flash from afar hails from Trinidad. Last week in the Stadium, Wendell Mottley set an Eli record when he ripped off a 46.7 quarter and then made it a double for the day with a 22-second 220.

Cornell will enter Steve Machooka of Kenya, Africa, in the mile. Army and Navy have it a little tougher—all their entries must by law be citizens of the United States.

TITLE AT STAKE
In Lacrosse At New Haven.
The game which will decide whether Princeton's seven-year reign in the Ivy Lacrosse League will continue will be played Saturday at New Haven. An optimistic Yale ten, only other member of the circuit to win the title since Ivy play was formalized in 1956, is hopeful of ambushing the Tigers.

The decision rests largely on whether Princeton will live up to the potential it has realized only intermittently this season. The Orange and Black played good lacrosse in upstate Maryland, in holding national champion Navy to a 9-6 victory and in rolling to a 9-0 lead in the first half Saturday against Harvard.

The Crimson came back, however, to pare the final margin to 12-8, admittedly in considerable degree because of Ferris Thomsen's steady use of reserves in the second half. None the less, there is reason for concern as Princeton moves into New Haven hoping to keep alive its string of 28 Ivy games without a defeat.

Before topping Harvard—which hasn't won over Princeton in lacrosse since 1925, the Tigers barely got by Penn, 6-3, and the Quakers already have last place clinched. In answer to growing comment that they may be heading for unjustified defeat in Ivy circles, the Princetonians lambasted Harvard to a 9-0 tune in the first half. Then, with the reserves infiltrating, they actually yielded six goals to the Crimson in the final period.

Carl Willie and Ernie Dreher paced the Tigers with three goals apiece. Improved midfield play and a firm desire to keep the Ivy record intact will be needed at New Haven if Yale's challenge is to be disintegrated.

TIGERS TAKE TWO MORE
In Eastern Baseball League.
Victories over Pennsylvania (5-1) and Harvard (7-5) within a space of 48 hours last week gave Princeton's baseball team the best shot at the title it has had in a decade. It will, however, be an uphill battle, as the Tigers went into the final fortnight of action with their last three games away from home—at Annapolis, New Haven and Hanover.

If the championship hopes are derailed, they will probably be wrecked by uncertain fielding, which very nearly cost the decision with Harvard Saturday. Neither the catching nor the outfield is defensively as solid as a title-bound team should be. Against the Crimson, each of the three outfielders was guilty of a misplay that increased the pitchers' problems in a tight game.

Gerry Skey (see "We Congratulate") and Emil Rosenberg were the winning pitchers. Skey was constantly in control in throwing a four-hitter while going the distance against Penn and in a one-round relief chore that nailed down the coffin on the high hopes Harvard had brought into the 1963 season.

Rosenberg had his problems almost constantly, partially from faulty support but mostly from the five walks and 11 hits that Harvard collected from him in the eight innings he worked. Still and all, he was credited with the victory for having kept the Tigers within range when he left on the short end of a 5-4 count and they rallied for three runs in the last of the eighth.

Batting Power Returns. Ten hits in each of the games against Penn and Harvard dissipated the slump into which Princeton had fallen briefly. Power at the plate has been provided largely by Captain Don Fudge, Blake Stafford, Larry Schoenfeld and Bill Bradley.

Fudge took a tremendous .542 league average (13 for 24) into the Navy game with him this week. Bradley's hits are extremely timely: he drove in the first run in the Penn contest and started the three-run rally in the second inning against Harvard with a double.

Fudge was four for five against Harvard, with three runs batted in. His fourth blow—and all of them were solid—brought shortstop Joe Sisco home with the tying run, and moments later, Schoenfeld hammered a line single to right center that gave the Tigers the 7-5 verdict. Skey came on in the ninth to prevent the visitors from scoring, despite the fact that Stafford misjudged the leadoff batter's line drive into a triple.

In between the two league games, Rutgers defeated Princeton, 7-3, for the second time this season. Teun Schoolwerth was the losing pitcher after he had replaced Paul Lahti in the top of the first.

PHS SKIDS TO 4-6

After Losing Pair. The Princeton High School baseball team may be in trouble. With pitcher Jack Rosso sidelined with a pinched nerve, it lost two games in a row last week for the first time.

Three games are scheduled in the next week against schools Princeton High figures to beat Thursday it will meet

HE'S AT IT AGAIN: Bill Bradley (left), who rewrote the basketball record book at Princeton last winter, is playing first base for Eddie Donovan's Tiger nine as it bids for Eastern League pennant. The 6-5 sophomore is fielding well and batting .333. (Richards Photo)

Hunterdon Central. The next day it will oppose newcomer Franklin and on Tuesday it meets Steinert. Friday's tilt against Franklin is the only home game. It will start at 3:45.

If PHS, now 4-6, fails to win against this weaker opposition, any hope for a winning season will fall proportionately. Only five contests will remain of its 19-game schedule, after the Steinert encounter. Four of the five will be played at home.

Friday, the Little Tigers dropped their second decision to Ewing this season, 5-3. The day before, in a game postponed because of the weather, Cathedral took advantage of five PHS errors for an 11-7 victory. PHS had defeated Cathedral in April, in the opener for both schools.

PHS outit Ewing 6-4, and committed only one error to the victors' four, but that one error was a costly one. In the second inning, first-sacker Jimmy Case threw wild over third in fielding a bunt, permitting two runs to score. Ewing then squeezed home another run and added two more in the following inning. In the second frame, the losers scored once when Paul Walstad singled, stole second and rode home on Dave Muni's single. They tallied their final runs in the sixth. Ken Ward and Dave Shields sandwiched singles around two Ewing errors for two runs.

Stemle Tires. Tom Stemle, pitching with little rest, lost his third game in a row. It was obvious he didn't have his stuff from the beginning. Dan Corvino came on in the third and pitched effectively, striking out five and allowing only one hit in the four and one-third innings he worked.

Corvino's performance was the lone bright spot, in fact. Previously, he had not been impressive. But against Ewing his curve ball was breaking sharply for the first time. He struck out two of the last three batters. Nevertheless, it was too late to prevent Ewing from capturing its seventh win in nine outings.

Pitching was not a factor in the Cathedral-PHS contest. Both squads banged out 11 hits, including three home runs, but PHS had a 5-0 margin in errors. When not hitting, Princeton batters were striking out. Bill Weiss, who Case, 361; Ken Ward, 290; and Paul Walstad and Dave Shields, each 286. The averages of other players dip sharply. The team average is .250, up two points over the previous week.

If the Little Tigers could spread their hitting among more players, one shortcoming would be erased. Collectively, the team is striking out more often than it is hitting. In 279 at bats, PHS has rapped out 70 hits (one fourth) but at the same time it has struck out 95 times (slightly more than a third).

Another shortcoming is pitching. Basically, the staff consists of Tom Stemmler and Jack Rosso. With Rosso hurt, Stemmler has been forced to pitch more than he should. The results have been three straight losses for Tom.

On defense, the Little Tigers have been air-tight one game and sloppy the next. Of the 20 runs scored off Stemmler, for example, six have been earned, allowing him to post a fine 1.98 earned run average. The team fielding average is .896. Defensive standouts on the squad include Britton, 1.000, catcher Walstad, second baseman Ward and first baseman Case with .961, .919 and .947 marks.

If Corvina develops into a starting pitcher to relieve the undermanned mound staff, if Rosso returns to mound duty soon, if the half of the team that isn't hitting starts to, then it may not be a long spring for coach Harry Zell after all. If not—well, then there's always next year.

EWING NIPS PHS, 60½-56½

Long Branch Relays Next. From among Jay Gallagher, Hank Schmidt, Bruce Baxter, Larry Mueller, John Kowalski and Jim Norris, Princeton High School track coach Jerry Groninger intends to select the four runners who will represent PHS Saturday at the Long Branch Relays.

PHS will compete in a medley race consisting of the mile, half, quarter and 220 events. Baxter will probably run the quarter mile but the other positions are still open to some last-minute shuffling by Groninger. This is the only event the Little Tigers plan to enter.

On Monday, the track team will travel to Somerville High School for its seventh dual meet of the season. After losing its last two dual meets, including Frulay's four-point squeaker to Ewing, PHS will have to be sharp to keep it from becoming three in a row.

"Somerville is good in running where we are weaker," reported Groninger. "We should take the field events, but it's going to be close."

Javelin Decides. It couldn't be any closer than the Ewing meet. "I thought we were going to win," said Groninger. "I figured to sweep the javelin, but we didn't." Had Princeton swept the javelin, instead of taking first and third place only, it would have won the meet by two points.

Jack Kelly, captain of field events for the Blue and White, won the event with a toss of 173' 8". Pete Webber's effort of 164 feet was good for third place. But, to Princeton's dismay, Ewing's Hank Wyckoff chose this meet to hurl the javelin farther than he ever had before.

Wyckoff captured second place with a throw of 166 feet, breaking his school record. It was the first time he had ever thrown the javelin more than 145 feet, according to Groninger. "And if you're going to do it, that's the time to do it, not in practice."

In addition to being an exciting meet, it was also an exceptional meet in individual efforts. School records were respected no more than Russian promises. Unfortunately, it was Ewing that was breaking school records.

The visitors bettered previous school marks in the 100, javelin, quarter-mile and half-mile. In the half-mile, Bob Dufalo is believed to have tied or missed the state record by a fraction of a second. His time was a sizzling 1:57.4.

According to Groninger, PHS achieved its high water marks in the high jump and half-mile. George Smith won the high jump with a leap of 5'8". "This would have to be the best jump since the days of Carl Brown," reported Groninger. Brown did his jumping back in 1936.

Though he lost the half mile, Schmidt's time of 2:02 was his best performance of the year. On any other given day, it would have been fast enough to win. Even more to Hank's credit is that he has run half-mile only twice before in competition. Earlier in the season he competed as a miler.

Other best performances of the season by Princeton include Al Spencer's winning throw of 133' 8" in the discus, and Jim McKeever's 46' 4½" effort in the shot. It was McKeever's first time to take top honors in the event. John Kowalski and Spencer took second and third in the shot which was the only event swept by the losers.

Pete Heiberger won the low hurdles with a clocking of 21 seconds flat and sophomore Bill Aiken won the pole vault and tied for second in the low hurdles. Bruce Baxter, Larry Mueller and Jay Gallagher captured second place in the quarter-mile, 220 and mile. Baxter's time in the quarter was a fine 52.5, two-tenths of a second slower than the record time of Ewing's Ed Vennella.

The Princeton jayvee squad had little trouble in downing the Ewing jayvees, 56-48. The winners placed first in nine of the 13 events. They were Joe Squiteri, high hurdles; Vince Boccanfuso, 100; Charles Fish, mile; Robert Van Fleet, quarter-mile; Joe Fasanella, javelin; Bart Bennett, low hurdles; Pete Glatz, shot; Ray Durkin, pole vault; and Dennis May, 220.

In the Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior High Track Meet held Saturday in Trenton, Princeton won third place with 18 points. More than 200 boys from nine Mercer County schools competed. Grief Junior High, which PHS defeated earlier in a dual meet by one point, won with 24 points.

Bart Bennett took the low hurdles with a clocking of 22.1, excellent time for a freshman according to Groninger. Al Vormacka ran the quarter mile in 57.7 for first place. "We made a good showing," said the pleased Groninger, looking ahead to greener years.

WE Congratulate

GERRY SKEY
Princeton Pitcher

With a month left on the schedule, Princeton's baseball team is virtually sure of winning at least twice as many games as it did a year ago and three times
the number of league contests. Improved hitting, fielding and pitching are all contributing their share — with the impressive work of Gerry Skey on the mound the principal factor in the latter department.

In defeating Temple, Colgate, Brown, Cornell and Penn (the last four all complete games), Skey has compiled an earned run average of 1.38. In league action, he was even better — 1.13 as the Tigers rolled through the first two-thirds of the race with a 5-1 mark.

Last week, Penn was in first place when it arrived at Clarke Field. Two hours later, Skey had hung a four-hit, 5-1 defeat on the Quakers, having enough in the ninth inning to hold them scoreless after they placed men on first and third with none out.

His one-inning relief stint against Harvard on Saturday was equally impressive.
The leadoff batter reached third when a line drive labelled "out" was misjudged in left field for a triple. The next three batters were retired on a come-backer to the mound, an easy grounder to short and a strikeout.

In the process, Skey never pitched a single called ball.
Born in Johannesburg, South Africa, while his mother was en route from New Zealand to England during the last war, Skey is a graduate of St. Mark's, where he notched 36 victories. He started baseball as a little league first baseman, still has a five-inch scar over his eye from colliding with his catcher who was chasing a pop up and had not thrown away his mask. Later, a coach noticed that "he had all the right pitching motions" and things have been going well on the mound for Skey ever since.

With four weeks to go, Skey is on the verge of becoming the most impressive pitcher Princeton has had since the bright era of Ray Chirugi, Harry Brightman and Dave Sisler. He has another year at Princeton, as do all but two of the other eight players in the starting lineup. Gerry Skey's pitching is generally solid, and Princeton baseball should follow suit at least for the remainder of this season and all of next.

had called Princeton "a paper favorite against which we definitely have a chance," but when the two teams met here Saturday, it wasn't so. Of the ten singles matches played, the Crimson won only three and of the five doubles, exactly none.

Accordingly, John Conroy's operatives swept past what is expected to be their toughest opposition and move on to New Haven Saturday for another big one with Yale. The anticipated triumph over the Elis will be Princeton's 33rd in a row, presuming weather permits playing Williams at Williamstown Friday.

CREW THIRD AGAIN

Rows At Ithaca Saturday.
For the second week in a row, Princeton's heavyweight crew placed third in cup competition when Harvard and M. I. T. led the Tigers across the line on the Charles River.

The Cantabs staged a tremendous finish to nip Tech by less than a deck-length, being timed in 9:36.3 for the mile and three-quarters compared to 9:36.4 for the runners-up.
Princeton led in the early stages by as much as a length over Harvard but could not maintain the pace which both of the other contestants for the Compton Cup produced over the final half-mile.

The Tigers were clocked in 9:48.5, a good three lengths off the pace, with Dartmouth a distant fourth. Nothing went Princeton's way at Cambridge Saturday; Harvard took the freshman and third varsity races; M. I. T. the jayvee affair and Kent School beat the second freshmen.

Saturday's race for the Carnegie Cup at Ithaca also gives indications of being a two-boat race between Cornell and Yale.
The Elis have been beaten by
M. I. T. but last week defeated Columbia and Penn in the Blackwell Cup. Cornell opened its season by sweeping all events from Syracuse and Navy.

22 POINTS ON DEFENSE

(The following story was written for TOWN TOPICS by the Office of Sports Information at Dartmouth.)

Hanover, N. H.—Charles C.
Stuart of 34 Mercer Street, Princeton, was a key member of the Dartmouth freshman hockey team which finished the season with 11 wins in 18 games. Charlie was the backbone of the defense all year;
in fact, he often had to play
most of the game.

Stuart, 18, led the team in minutes played in every game.
While playing solid defense,
Charlie scored 10 goals and 12 assists for 22 points to finish as the team's fourth leading scorer.

His best games were against his former teammates at Andover, where he scored a goal and assisted on another while playing brilliantly on defense to lead his sextet to an impressive 5-1 victory. In a game against the Cranston (R. I.) Amateur team, Stuart notched two key goals and an assist in the Dartmouth 3-3 win.

"Charlie is a real competitor and an offensive-minded defenseman. He possesses an excellent, low, hard shot and is especially hard to turn on defense," commented freshman coach Ahner Oakes. "He has fine hockey sense," Oakes added, forecasting that "he should be one of the top sophomores in the Ivy League next year."

At Phillips Andover, Stuart led his team to the Lawrenceville Hockey Tournament championship in 1961 and became the first player in Andover history never to lose to St. Paul's or Exeter in three years of hockey action. In addition, Charlie played end in football and outfield in baseball and was a member of the Phillips Society. He is also an alumnus of Princeton Country Day School, where he won nine letters in four sports.

HUN LOSES FIRST

But Retains League Lead.
After winning its first five, the Hun School baseball team lost its first of the season Friday when it dropped a 3-2 decision to home team Delbarton. Despite the defeat, Hun still leads the six-team Penn-Jersey League with a perfect 3-0 record, as Delbarton is not a league member.

Hun will get a second chance against Delbarton Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when it will engage the visitors in a return game here. On Wednesday, at 3:30, the Red and Black will play host to Pingry in the lone encounter between the two schools this year.

The Pingry contest will be Hun's final home appearance. After that, Hun will conclude its 11-game season with a game against Pennington School and a return contest against Solebury. Both are league games.

Wildness on the part of the heretofore steady Scott Page led to Hun's first defeat. In the two and two-thirds innings he worked, Page walked two, hit two, and gave up all of Delbarton's three runs. It was the first defeat against two wins for the stocky southpaw from Trenton.

Mike Schnall came on in relief. He ended the Delbarton threat when, with runners on first and third, he got the next batter to hit into an inning-ending double play. From there on, Schnall held the home team harmless.

Although it outlived Delbarton, 6-3, Hun threatened only once. In the sixth it bunched three of its hits for both its runs when Page singled, captain Alex Langel doubled, and Lonnie Kaplan singled them both home.

Pressure Off. In defeat there was one benefit, however: it relieved some of the pressure. Hun can concentrate on winning the league crown and stop pressing for that perfect season. It was unrealistic, in the first place, for anyone to think Hun could go through the season undefeated, playing the competition it does, in the opinion of Hun coach Sandy Bing.

Last Wednesday, Hun rolled up its biggest score of the season to wallop Solebury, 13-7. For those who may remember, it was an unusually cold day. The temperature had dropped to the low 30s and the game was called in the sixth inning because of the weather. Originally, it had been scheduled here but the poor condition of Hun's field forced the switch to Solebury.

NO-HITTER TOSSED

By Larries' Thurston. Lawrenceville won its second baseball game of the season last week on a no-hit pitching performance by freshman Pete Thurston. Thurston checked Delbarton for seven innings as the Larries won, 3-0.

The Red and Black could only manage three hits but scored two runs in the third on a bases-loaded throwing error. On Saturday, the Larries dropped their seventh contest, taking a 9-4 defeat at the hands of Ridgewood High.

Opposition this week was provided by the George School on Wednesday. The Larries will meet Hill on Saturday at Pottstown, Pa., in their first away game of the year.

The Lawrenceville track squad recovered from a 65-52 defeat by the Princeton University freshmen earlier in the week, to crush St. Benedict's, 85½-31½, last Saturday. The outstanding individual performances of the week were turned in by Pete Worthen and Bob Poltras.

Worthen broke the school mark for the discus throw by more than 12 feet with a toss of 154 feet, 2½ inches against Princeton. Co-captain Poltras picked up another school mark in the shotput with a heave of 52 feet, ten inches. The track team was scheduled to meet the Columbia freshmen on Wednesday and will play host to Peddie on Saturday.

The lacrosse team was seeking its fifth straight win Wednesday, meeting the Rutgers freshmen at New Brunswick. The squad continued its undefeated season last Saturday with an 11-6 victory over Hun. This Saturday's contest is against Hill.

Two more victories last week brought the tennis team's record to 7-1. The Larries edged Pingry, 5-4, and beat Ridgewood, 7-2, Saturday. They will oppose The Hill School Saturday after Wednesday's match with the Princeton freshmen.

GIANTS, TIGERS LEAD

In Midgel League. The world series champion Giants of the National League and the pennant-winning Tigers of the American picked up where they left off last year by taking early leads in their Midgel League divisions this season. Each have won two games without a defeat.

The Indians have also won twice to tie the Tigers for first place in the American League. They defeated Laidlaw Senators 24-7 and the Nassau and Saving Loan Athletics, 12-7. The Tigers triumphed over the Princeton Kiwanis Orioles, 10-3, and the Senators.

In other games in the American League, the Nassau Fund Red Sox defeated the Hurlil Yankess, 12-3, and then bowed 10-3 to the Orioles. The Senators and Orioles each lost two games.

In National League action, the Palmer Square Giants defeated the Rotary Club Dodgers and the Princeton Lions Cardinals. The Plainsboro Lions Pirates were edged by the Princeton Savings Red Legs, 4-3, but came back to topple the University Store Braves, 8-4. The Nassau Oil team defeated the Orioles and the Princeton Bank and Trust Phillies.

BOWLING NOTES

Number One Takes Title. Princeton No. One won two of three games from Lawrenceville to take the championship playoff in the Tri-County Firemen's League.

The victors had the top total score for the second half of the season in league play with Lawrenceville finishing first in the first half. The league will hold its annual awards banquet Thursday at 6:30 in the Princeton Junction Firehouse.

With a week remaining in the "B" League season, six teams still have a mathematical chance of capturing the

First Game, First Victory

Princeton Country Day School last week won the first lacrosse game ever played in the school's history.

The Hun School freshmen provided the opposition, and the Blue and White recorded a 5-4 triumph after taking a 4-2 half-time lead. The sport was introduced informally last year but this spring marked the first time another school had been played. Chris Bush led PCD scoring with two goals.

title. Edwards Engraving won three straight last week to increase its lead to three points.

Maul Electric and Jugtown are tied for second with 55 points apiece. Behind them are Ivy Inn, Kase Kleaners and Walker Gordon, with 52 points each. Harry Kahny had the high game, a 229, and Bill Penelli rolled games of 211, 214 and 199 for a total of 624 plus and the top series. Other scores of 200 or better: Bill Murphy, 221; Joe Baldino, 215; Frank Maddalon, 214; Mike Pinnelli, 212; Lloyd Henderson, 202; and Pete Homan, 200.

Gudio Zinetti jumped from third to first in the Individual Classic League, moving ahead of Joe Baldino by one-half game and in front of Mike Basile by two games. Zinetti, with a 60-33 record, had the high game and series of the week. His scores were 216, 198 and 234 for a total of 648.

DO YOU KNOW...

NEW JERSEY

...ranks third in the nation in the amount spent per pupil for elementary and high school education!

New Jersey has a right to be proud of its educational system. Approximately $515 is spent yearly on each pupil in New Jersey elementary and high schools, third highest in the nation. New Jersey's excellent educational system dates back to 1867, when a requirement was inserted in the State Constitution that "the Legislature shall provide . . . free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of 5 and 18."

Special facilities are available for crippled, blind, deaf and retarded children. The vocational schools have the backing of industry and rank among the most modern, best equipped in the country.

New Jersey's vast educational system includes 1,652 elementary schools, 321 high schools, 14 vocational schools, and numerous parochial schools, private schools and academies.

Health, character-building, and good citizenship are emphasized in New Jersey schools, in addition to a high level of academic studies.

MUSIC In Princeton

SANDBURG APPROVES

"Weavers" Are OK. "When I hear America singing, there are the Weavers." The comment is Carl Sandburg's, the singing group is the quartet that has been responsible for so much of the current interest in folk singing.

"The Weavers" will come to McCarter Theatre this Saturday at 8:30 with a program of American and international songs, including such Weavers standbys as "Goodnight, Irene," "On Top of Old Smokey" and "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine."

In their "Folk Songs Around the World" group, they will present work songs, blues, ballads and spirituals from many lands and peoples. Guitar and banjo serve as accompaniment. Tickets may be reserved by calling McCarter at WA 1-8700.

AMATEURS TO SING

Final Meeting For Year. Mozart's "Requiem" will be sung by members of the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs when they gather Sunday at 5 in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School. It will be the last meeting of the Amateurs for the season.

ANTIQUE CAR CONTEST

(advertisement #4)

Clues: Model shown was built the year President McKinley was shot at the Pan American Exposition in Buffalo, New York. (Same year that National Association of Automobile Manufacturers was organized.) The name of the brand of car appears in a song title of yesteryear and is a very old name in automobile history, dating back to 1896.

In case you haven't heard...
We're Having A Contest
Open to All Boys and Girls (age 14 or younger)

Complete the contest entry form in our June 6th advertisement, then bring it along with either mother or dad, or both, to our showroom to see if you win a free brake adjustment for their car.

Clues: This make of car was introduced as a "low-priced" automobile and is still a contender in that field today. The year of the model was the year that the Ford Division was organized to assemble and market Ford cars and trucks. In this same year, two women were convicted and sentenced to prison for treason for their wartime propaganda broadcasts. (Axis Sally and Tokyo Rose)

News Of The CHURCHES

METHODISTS TO JOIN
For Summer Services, Integrated services will be held for the first time this July by Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church and Princeton Methodist Church. Arrangements were completed Sunday by leaders of both denominations. Present at the meeting were the Rev. Albert D. Tyson Jr. and the Rev. Charles Marker, pastors of the two churches; Ulysses S. Johnson, steward of Mt. Pisgah; Mrs. Paul Jones, superintendent of the Methodist church school; Mrs. Richard Thomas, organist; and Robert Simpson, music director, both of Princeton Methodist; Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, head of the Mt. Pisgah Sunday school and Mrs. Willie Mitchell, director of music at Mt. Pisgah.

Services and church school will be held on July 7 and 14 at the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Mr. Marker leading the worship and the Rev. Mr. Tyson preaching. On July 21 and 28, at Mt. Pisgah, the Rev. Mr. Tyson and his assistant, G. Howard Hunt, will lead the opening worship and the Rev. Mr. Marker will preach. Additional plans are being worked out for a joint Sunday School staff, choir and ushers. Negotiations started two or three months ago, when the official board of Princeton Methodist asked the pastor to explore the possibilities of such a venture.

"It was just done in the interests of Christian brotherhood," Mr. Marker says. "Our feeling is, as Christians, we should get to know one another better and work together. Also, we wanted to do something to make for better understanding between the races. We have the conviction that racial differences shouldn't keep the races apart."

The two churches have served Princeton for more than a century; Mt. Pisgah was founded about 1837 and Princeton Methodist in 1847.

"We are actually two separate denominations," the Rev. Mr. Marker adds. "The African Methodist Episcopal Church is basically Methodist. Historically, the division between the two churches goes back to the late 17th's. Old St. George's Methodist Church in Philadelphia asked the Negroes to sit in the back of the church. So they walked out. The new denomination was formed about 1816."

The integrated services will involve congregations of about 200 at Mt. Pisgah and 750 at Princeton Methodist. The Women's Society and youth groups have previously shared meetings.

"We are looking forward to this with a good deal of enthusiasm," says Mr. Marker.

Obituaries

Douglas H. MacNeil, 61, of Cherry Valley Road, died May 4 in Princeton Hospital following a brief illness. He was chief of the bureau of social research and statistics in the Department of Institutions and Agencies of the State of New Jersey.

Born in Indiana, Mr. MacNeil had lived in Princeton for nearly 25 years. He was a member of Trinity Church.

Following graduation from Hobart College, he studied at John Hopkins and Columbia Universities and entered public life in 1930. He had served New Jersey since that time except for two years with the Social Science Research Council.

Mr. MacNeil was director of the Juvenile Delinquency Commission until 1939 when he joined the Department of Institutions and Agencies.

In 1949, he was named TOWN TOPICS' "Man of the Week" for "his 17 years of service to the people of New Jersey. Director of the state's juvenile delinquency program, he has gained recognition as one of the nation's ranking authorities in a vitally important field.

"He has demonstrated that state-local collaboration, even with no direct supervisory power vested in the state agencies, can be made to work effectively."

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace McKittrick MacNeil; two daughters, Miss Elizabeth C. MacNeil and Miss Anne W. S. MacNeil, both of Princeton; his mother, Mrs. Lillian A. MacNeil of East Orange; and his brother, David B. MacNeil of Brookside, N. J.

The Rev. Robert R. Spears Jr., rector of Trinity Church, officiated at the funeral, which was held in All Saints' Chapel. Burial was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Miss Helen Day Gibby, 89, a native of Princeton, died May 4 at the Presser Home for Retired Music Teachers, where she had lived for a number of years. She was the daughter of the late William James Gibby, principal of the old Model School on Nassau Street. Her father was also mayor of Princeton for two terms.

She graduated from Evelyn College in 1894 and set up a private school for boys and girls in her Nassau Street home. The school started with the lower grades and continued through college preparation.

Her house, now owned by the Dudley Johnsons, was moved from Nassau Street around the corner to Linden Lane.

Miss Gibby moved to Newark where she studied and taught music, specializing in the piano. The recitals given by her pupils were notable musical events in Newark.

She lived there for over 20 years. Of her six brothers, two survive: Edgar Marsh Gibby of Roselle and W. Percival Gibby of Westfield.

The Rev. Clarence K. Brixey of the Kingston Presbyterian Church will conduct the graveside service at 3 this Thursday in Princeton Cemetery, where Miss Gibby will be buried in the family plot.

There was no service. Cremation was under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Russell H. VanSant Sr., 79, of 7 Golden Avenue, Hopewell, died May 1 in the Foot Hills Nursing Home, Neshanic. He was a former mayor of Hopewell.

Mr. VanSant was a director of the Hopewell Savings and Loan Association, a life member of Charity Lodge 1190 F & AM of Norristown, Pa.; a member of Scottish Rite, and Crescent Temple of Trenton and of Mercer Grange 71.

He retired in 1944 from the Reading Railroad and operated a garage and radio service shop in Hopewell. A former dustrial League by sweeping three games from the English Shop, the leaders the week before. Decker's holds a 67-62 margin over the second place team and leads Jefferson Plumbing by 11 points.

Ann Amaistano was the high scorer with a 186 contest. She was followed by Dot Wheeler, 180; Gil De Vido, 166; Sara Rose and Betty Frazer, 160 apiece; Lillian Burroughs, 159 and Ruth Martin, 152.

Para Lab was two of three contests and cut the Reformers' Industrial League lead in half. The Reformers hold a 48-46 edge over their nearest rival and are four points in front of the Princeton Elks.

In a tight battle for scoring honors, Carlo Perantoni, with a 215 mark, edged Dick Van Noy by a pin and Val Ranallo by two. Jerry Perpetua rolled a 211, followed by Milton Shinn, 209, and Norman Luck, 207.

TIGERS LOSE TO NAVY
Errors Hurt in 5-4 Game. A five-run inning during which Princeton was guilty of two errors and a wild pitch sank the Tigers at Annapolis Tuesday. Navy did all of its scoring in the fourth and hung on to win, 5-4.

Gerry Skey was the loser after five victories. His wild pitch, an outfield error by Blake Stafford and a ball that Chuck Weeden let go through his legs at second all aided the midshipmen as they sent 11 men to the plate.

The Tigers face Yale Saturday and finish on May 18 against Dartmouth at Hanover. They must win both, and hope for a Columbia loss to Navy Saturday in order to tie for the league title.

GOLFERS QUALIFY
In Women's Tournament. Twenty-two women members of the Springdale Golf Club qualified Tuesday in the spring handicap tournament. They will compete in one flight of 16 and another of six.

Mrs. Theodore Slingman was the medalist for 18 holes with a net of 77. Mrs. Harrison Fraker's net of 38 led the nine-hole players, who will compete in one flight of 16.

LAWSON, HOLT WIN AGAIN
In Carnegie Sailing. Jerry Lawson and Phil Holt were the winners in their respective classes for the second week in a row in the races staged Sunday by the Carnegie Sailing Club.

Lawson took all three races in the GP-14 series, scoring 14.1 points. Other scores were: Marsden Vanderwaart, 7.6; Chel Stroup, 6.4; and Bill Goetz, 5.2.

Holt, whose crew was Sam Lamar and Rob Holt, won both Penguin races to total 20.4 points. He was followed by Harry Cooke, 14.3; Tom Huntington, 14.1; Dexter Miller, 13.3; Dick Grace, 12.0; Walt Foster, 10.1; Carl Olson, 7.0; Bob Wilson, 4.0; and Art Keiser and John Reeder, 3.0 apiece.

Only a site it is, unfortunately, but what a sight! High on the bank of a wide stream, overlooking the mill pond, upstream to a triple-arched stone bridge, downstream to a small island — the picture book setting is there. So is the old mill, sadly only a shell of its former self, but a fine source of priceless building materials: huge beams, wide floorboards, old stone. Almost 2 acres at an asking price of $13,500

If your taste runs to luxurious New York apartments but you want Princeton living, we have a compromise to offer in a beautiful small one-story house near town on the West side. Elegance galore! Marble fireplace, brocade-textured wall covering, French doors to enchanting terrace, handsome marbleized floor covering — all in perfect taste. 5 rooms, 2 baths are ample space for a couple; charming garden matches the house.

Rugged individualists or fanatics stickly about privacy, take note! This contemporary house in the woods (best area) has been reduced for a quick sale to $42,500. Pine boards & bathtubs . . . flagstone & whitewashed brick . . . railroad ties & white gravel . . . glass walls & dogwood — get the feel of it? It's fun, well-built, easily expandable & the land alone is worth a good $20,000.

The owner of this fine four-family house has bought in another area so there might be a price give in this one. If there is, it's a lot of house for the money. For example: liv. rm., family rm., din. rm., den, 4 bdrms., 2 1/2 baths, basement playroom, large well-planted grounds for an asking price of $39,500? See what we mean?

CHECK TERMITE DAMAGE

Every year at this time, homeowners find winged insects that suddenly fly out and then drop their wings and crawl all around. These insects are termites and indicate that there are thousands of other termites still eating the house causing further destruction to the wood of the house.
The cost of repairs far exceeds the cost of treatment and goes higher with delay.

Call us for free inspection of your home by experienced personnel.

Our work, which we guarantee for TEN years, is engineered to exceed specifications of existing regulations making us the leaders in the field.
